The Washington Evening Star.

High professional authority—which in this instance only expresses public sentiment—has declared that “THERE IS NO BETTER EVENING NEWSPAPER IN THE UNITED STATES” than THE STAR. But even more than this may be justly claimed for it. In all that relates to the composition of a first-class journal devoted to news, business, family, and local affairs, it takes rank with the very best in the world, and in the special qualities named it is not surpassed by any. With alert, intelligent, and impartial special correspondents at all centres of interest, by the free use of the telegraph, and with the superior mechanical facilities with which its office is equipped, it covers the whole field of news, and is able to present a reflex of the entire civilized world each day up to the very moment of going to press. In these respects THE STAR is absolutely without a rival, and fearlessly challenges comparison within range of the territory it occupies.

More officers of the Army and Navy make their homes in Washington than in any other city in the Union, and it is not too much to say that a majority of the officers of the two services visit Washington, either on business or pleasure, or both combined, once or oftener each year. As a consequence, the social life of the Capital is to a large extent brightened and impressed by the presence of these cultivated gentlemen and their families, who take a prominent part in all the official ceremonies and social functions of the city; and, as every one who comes to Washington reads THE EVENING STAR, we feel that the paper needs no introduction to the Army and Navy, and we publish this card in the RECORDS OF LIVING OFFICERS OF THE U. S. NAVY, merely as a reminder to the officers and men of the two services that a yearly subscription to THE STAR will enable them, although absent, to keep au courant with the official and social happenings in Washington.

The price of a year's subscription to THE STAR, including postage, is $6.00.

OF THE
UNITED STATES NAVY AND MARINE CORPS, IS RESPECTFULLY DEDICATED
THIS RECORD OF THEIR SERVICES.

PREFACE.

THE services of army officers have been recorded by several authors, but those of the Navy and Marine Corps have been wholly neglected,—the Official Registers merely giving the name, place of birth, date of last commission, and present station. Much more is required, not alone in justice to these gallant patriots, but as part of our national history; as an incitement to others to pursue the career in which, while performing duty, they won renown. The present volume endeavors to supply this want. For the conductors of the public press, who may have occasion to write about these brave men, living or dead (for, though glory is immortal, those who obtain it must submit to the common destiny of their race), this work will be a treasury of facts, accurate in its full details. Henceforth, when an Officer of the Navy or Marine Corps passes to the better land, the recording journalist can draw upon these pages for the substantial facts of his public service, and not, as hitherto, make mere mention of his name.

President Board of Inspection and Survey, November 5, 1895, to 1897. Promoted to Commodore, February 28, 1896; commanding Asiatic Station. The outbreak of hostilities between the United States and Spain on April 21, 1898, found Commodore Dewey in command of the United States Naval forces (consisting of six unarmored ships) at Hong Kong, China. Acting under orders from the Department to “capture or destroy enemy’s fleet,” Dewey proceeded toward Manila, in the Philippine Islands, where the Spanish fleet of seven cruisers and several gunboats were assembled under the protection of the batteries at Corregidor, Cavite and Manila proper. Dewey entered Manila Bay early in the morning of May 1, attacked and annihilated the enemy’s ships, captured the arsenal at Cavite, destroyed the fortifications at the mouth of the bay, and established a blockade of Manila. For this daring and brilliant action, in which he lost not a single man, Dewey received the thanks of Congress and was commissioned Rear-Admiral on May 10, 1898.

Commissioned as Lieutenant, November 4, 1849; frigate "St. Lawrence," Mediterranean Squadron, 1850; coast survey, 1851; attached to a commission for selecting a naval station in the Bay of San Francisco, Cal., 1852; scientific expedition of steamer "Water Witch," Paraguay River, 1853-4; brig "Bainbridge," Brazil Squadron, 1854-5; Naval Observatory, Washington, 1856-7; steam-sloop "Saranac," Pacific Squadron, 1858; steam-frigate "Merrimac," Pacific Squadron, 1859-60; steam-frigate "Roanoke," as executive officer, North Atlantic Blockading Squadron, 1861; commanding "Seneca," South Atlantic Blockading Squadron, 1861-2, at Battle of Port Royal, November 7, 1861; the day following hoisted our flag over Fort Beauregard and made formal delivery to the army, by order of Rear-Admiral Du Pont; Tybee Island, December, 1861; commanded forces entering by way of Whale Branch in attack on Port Royal Ferry, January 1, 1862; engaged in the operations against Fernandina through St. Andrew's Sound and in St. John's River. Promoted to Commander, February 21, 1863; commanding monitor "Patapsco," South Atlantic Blockading Squadron, against Fort McAllister, March, 1863, and in the attack on Fort Sumter, April 7, 1863; had charge of a draft of 220 seamen on board of the California passenger steamer "Ocean Queen," May, 1864, bound to Aspinwall; two days after leaving New York suppressed an open and organized mutiny, with the assistance of Boatswain Thomas G. Bell, who was the only aid assigned, receiving in doing so the excellent co-operation of Captain Tinklepaugh,—who commanded the "Ocean Queen,"—his officers, and several of the passengers; commanding steam-sloop "Mohican," North Atlantic Blockading Squadron, 1864-5; in the bombardment of Fort Fisher, December, 1864, and again when it was carried by assault by the army, January, 1865; commanding iron-clad "Miantonomah," special service, 1866. Commissioned as Captain, July 25, 1866; special duty, Hartford, Connecticut, 1866-7; commanding flag-ship "Piscataqua," Asiatic Squadron, 1867-8; Chief of Bureau of Yards and Docks, 1869-71. Commissioned as Commodore, 1872; Chief of Bureau of Navigation, 1871-8. Commissioned as Rear-Admiral, 1887; retired at his own request, 1878; July, 1878, appointed chairman of a board for the re-location of the Naval Observatory; April, 1879, ordered to attend the convocation at Paris, France, known as the Inter-oceanic Ship-Canal Congress; had constructed on his design a cask "balsa," or life-boat, which is now at the Navy Yard, Portsmouth, N. H., at which place are built life-boats on this design for all of our vessels of war; total sea-service 21 years and 1 month; other duty, 17 years and 3 months. In 1881 a Naval Advisory Board recommended the building of five marine rams of 2000 tons displacement on plans and specifications laid before the Board by him. One is built and nearly ready for trial at Bath, Maine.

George B. Balch.—Born in Tennessee, January 3, 1821; appointed from Alabama, December 30, 1837; attached to sloop "Cyane," Mediterranean Station, 1838-41; schooner "Grampus," 1841; sloop "Falmouth," 1842; Naval School, 1842. Promoted to Passed Midshipman, June 29, 1843; special duty, 1845; in war with Mexico, November 1, 1846, engaged in first attack on Alvarado, by squadron under Commodore Conner; engaged in active operations from May, 1846, to surrender of Vera Cruz, March, 1847; in Mosquito Fleet, under Commodore Tatnall, covering the landing of the army under General Scott, March 9, 1847; at the time Acting Master of the "Falcon;" March, 1847, engaged in the joint bombardment of Vera Cruz with the army, and was present at the surrender of that city and the Castle of San Juan d'Ulloa to the military and naval forces; steamer "Princeton," Mediterranean Squadron, 1847-8; Naval Observatory, Washington, 1849-50. Commissioned as Lieutenant, August 16, 1850; sloop "Plymouth," Asiatic Squadron, 1851-5; while on the "Plymouth," Lieutenant Balch, in command of the advance post at Shanghai, China, was wounded in the hip in a fight between the rebels and Imperialists; Navy Yard, Washington, 1855-7, sloop "Jamestown," Home Squadron, 1857-58; sloop "St. Mary's," Pacific Squadron, 1858-60; frigate "Sabine," 1860; while on the "Sabine," fell in with the transport "Governor" and rescued nearly four hundred marines, under Lieutenant-Colonel Reynolds, the transport sinking under the "Sabine's" stern, November 2, 1861; in command of steamer "Pocahontas," South Atlantic Squadron, 1861-2; volunteered for command of boats in taking possession of Tybee Island, December 26, 1861. Commissioned as Commander, July 16, 1862; engaged rebel battery at Stono, South Carolina; in August, 1862, ascended Black River the distance of twenty-five miles, and drove rebel battery from earthworks, and engaged rebel infantry on the Bluffs; commanding steamer "Pawnee," South Atlantic Blockading Squadron, 1862-5; July 16, 1863, was attacked by two batteries, the rebels making a simultaneous attack on General Terry's forces. They were repulsed, and Commander Balch was informed by General Terry that he had saved his command. The "Pawnee" was struck forty-six times. On December 25, 1863, the "Marblehead" was opened on by rebel batteries; the "Pawnee" took an enfilading position in the Keowah River, and demoralized the enemy and caused him to retreat; afterward captured two rebel guns; while in command of the "Pawnee," Commander Balch engaged in the combined operations of the naval forces under Rear-Admiral Dahlgren, and the army under General Foster, in Stono River, South Carolina, from July 3 to 11, 1864, and particularly in the bombardment of Battery Pringle, on James Island, South Carolina. On February 9, 1865, having with him the "Sonoma" and "Daffodil," he ascended the Togoda Creek, North Edisto, South Carolina, and engaged three rebel batteries of eleven or twelve guns, driving the rebels from their earthworks; the "Pawnee" was hit ten times, the "Sonoma" twice, and the "Daffodil" twice; Navy Yard, Washington, 1866-8. Commissioned as Captain, July 25, 1866; commanding flagship "Albany," North Atlantic Squadron, 1868-70; navigation duty, Washington, 1870-1; Navy Yard, Washington, 1872. Commissioned as Commodore, August 13, 1872; Governor Naval Asylum, Philadelphia, 1873-6; member Light-House Board, 1877-8. Commissioned Rear-Admiral, June 5, 1878; member Examining Board, 1878; Superintendent Naval Academy, 1878-81; commanding Pacific Station, 1881-83. Retired, 1883.

John C. Febiger.—Born in Pennsylvania. Appointed from Ohio, September 14, 1838; attached to frigate "Macedonian," West Indian Squadron, 1838-40; sloop "Concord," Brazil Squadron, 1841-3; wrecked in "Concord" on east coast of Africa, 1842; attached to brig "Chippola," purchased by government at Rio de Janeiro, and used to recover and dispose of equipment of "Concord," 1843-4. Promoted to Passed Midshipman, May 20, 1844; frigate "Potomac," Home Squadron, 1844-5; sloop "Dale," Pacific Squadron, 1846-7; frigate "Columbus," Pacific Squadron, 1848; sloop "Dale," African Squadron, 1850; coast survey, 1852-7. Commissioned as Lieutenant, April 30, 1853; sloop "Germantown," East India Squadron, 1858-60; sloop "Savannah," 1861. Commissioned as Commander, August 11, 1862; commanding the steamer "Kanawha," West Gulf Blockading Squadron, 1862-3; engagement off Mobile Bay, April 3, 1862; commanding steamers "Osage," "Neosho" and "Lafayette," Mississippi Squadron, 1863; commanding steamer "Mattabeset," North Atlantic Blockading Squadron, 1864-5; engagement with rebel ram "Albemarle" in Albemarle Sound, May, 1864; commanding steamer "Ashuelot," Asiatic Squadron, 1866-8. Commissioned as Captain, May 6, 1868; commanding steam sloop "Shenandoah," Asiatic Squadron, 1868-9. While commanding the "Shenandoah," entered and surveyed Ping-Yang Inlet, west coast of Corea. Inspector of Naval Reserve Lands, from 1869-72; commanding U. S. steamer "Omaha," South Pacific Squadron, 1872-4; member Board of Examiners, 1874-6; Commandant Navy Yard, Washington, D. C., 1876 to August, 1880; special duty, Washington, August, 1880, to March, 1881; March 8, member Retiring Board, 1881-2. Promoted to Rear-Admiral, February 4, 1882. Retired on his own application, July 1, 1882.

Pierce Crosby.—Born in Delaware County, Pa. Appointed Midshipman from Pennsylvania, June 5, 1838; attached to line-of-battle-ship "Ohio," from 1838 until the summer of 1841, while flag-ship in the Mediterranean; attached to receiving-vessel "Experiment," at Philadelphia; afterwards attached to steamer "Mississippi," on her trial-trip with the "Missouri," from New York to Washington. In 1842, was attached to the frigate "Congress," and sailed with her from Portsmouth, N. H., to the Mediterranean; served in her six months; was then transferred to the sloop "Preble," and returned to the United States in the fall of 1843, and was then attached to the Naval School at Philadelphia. Promoted to Passed Midshipman, May, 1844; Coast Survey from summer of 1844 to summer of 1846, when he was ordered to the sloop "Decatur," and served in her six months in the Gulf of Mexico, during the Mexican War; participated in the attack and capture of Tuspan and Tobasco. Was then transferred to the gunboat "Petrel," and served in her one year, until peace was declared in the summer of 1848; afterward was attached to the store-ship "Relief," in 1849, carrying supplies to the Mediterranean and Coast of Africa Squadron, until the summer of 1850; attached to Philadelphia Navy Yard from the fall of 1850 to 1852 inclusive, and then transferred to receiving-ship stationed at Philadelphia, until spring of 1853; attached to the frigate "Sacramento," then fitting for sea at Norfolk; was soon detached from her and placed on waiting orders. Commissioned as Lieutenant, September 3, 1853; in the winter of 1853 was ordered to sloop "Germantown," and sailed in her in the spring of 1854, from Boston to the coast of Brazil, and returned to the United States in February, 1857; attached to receiving-ship at Philadelphia, until the latter part of 1858; sailed in the sloop "Saratoga," in the fall of 1858, for the Gulf of Mexico, and 1853 was ordered to sloop "Germantown," and sailed in her in the spring of 1854, from Boston to the coast of Brazil, and returned to the United States in February, 1857; attached to receiving-ship at Philadelphia, until the latter part of 1858; sailed in the sloop "Saratoga," in the fall of 1858, for the Gulf of Mexico, and with the exception of forty days on board the "Brooklyn," under Captain (afterwards Admiral) Farragut, served two years, and returned to the United States in the "Saratoga," in 1860; attached to the receiving-ship at Philadelphia, from 1860 to spring of 1861; in the spring and summer of 1861, served in Chesapeake Bay, keeping open communication between Annapolis and Havre de Grace, capturing and destroying rebel vessels in the bay, and cutting off rebel supplies and communications. In the summer of 1861, received orders, and was attached to the frigate "Cumberland;" was detailed for duty on shore at Fortress Monroe; transported the troop across Hampton Creek, on the night prior to the battle of Big Bethel, also transported them on their return after their unsuccessful attempt to take that place. Volunteered and took the steamer "Fannie" (a canal-boat), secured her boilers temporarily down to the deck with chains, and proceeded with her, in company with the squadron, to the attack on Forts Hatteras and Clarke, in order to have a light-draft vessel to operate in landing troops at that place; superintended the landing of troops, until the heavy surf swamped and broke up the boats and dashed them on the beach, when Lieutenant Crosby took a ship's heavy launch and landed two more boat-loads of troops, until the sea became so heavy that it threw the launch upon the beach, dashing all the crew out of her on to the shore. After thus having landed three hundred men and officers, the squadron and transports, on account of the bad weather, stood off seaward, leaving the troops landed on the shore until the following day, when the squadron returned, opened fire, and captured the forts, which were garrisoned by over seven hundred men, who had been led to believe, by the display made by the troops landed, that their force was over two thousand strong, as Lieutenant Crosby succeeded in getting a strong picket thrown across the point in front of the enemy's batteries, thus preventing their making a reconnoissance or ascertaining the condition of and actual force of the Union troops, when the squadron returned on the following day and relieved them from their critical condition. In this way the rebels were deceived and our troops were saved from attack and probable capture, as nearly all the ammunition was wet, and the volunteer troops, being in a disorganized state, could not, in all probability, have successfully opposed double their number. Was especially mentioned in General Butler's official report of the expedition. Captured several schooners running the blockade, they not knowing the forts had surrendered. In the fall, and shortly after the capture of these forts, was ordered to the command of the gunboat "Pembino," fitting out at New York; but was taken dangerously ill with typhoid fever, brought on by constant exposure, privations, and fatigue in the performance of his duties. In the winter of 1861, took command of the gunboat "Pinola," at Baltimore; took her to Washington, received her battery, and sailed for the Gulf Squadron, joining Admiral Farragut's command in the spring of 1862. While on his way to join the squadron, captured the schooner "Cora," loaded with cotton, and sent her North as a prize. Commanded the "Pinola" on the memorable night when she co-operated with the "Itasca" in breaking through the chain barrier across the Mississippi, at Forts Jackson and St. Philip. The "Itasca" successfully slipped the end of the cable on the opposite shore to Fort Jackson, and in so doing ran hard and fast aground, but through the skillful exertions of Commander Crosby, she was rescued from her critical position, at about two o'clock in the morning. The "Pinola's" duty on this occasion was to blow up with torpedoes the vessels holding the chain barrier, and anchored directly under Fort Jackson's guns, which was twice tried. The vessels were boarded, which immediately drew the fire of Fort Jackson; torpedoes were placed in the hold, also outside of the vessels, and everything carefully arranged; but owing to the mass of floating timber around the vessel, the strong current and dark night, the wires attached to the galvanic battery and torpedoes were broken just as the attempt was made to explode them. When the third attempt was about being made, a boat arrived alongside, announcing the "Itasca" ashore, and in want of the "Pinola's" assistance to get her afloat; the attempt to blow up the vessels was reluctantly given up for the time, to assist the "Itasca," and in going to her assistance again drew the fire of Fort Jackson. In the first attempt to pull the "Itasca" afloat, two hawsers broke, but succeeded with an e'even-inch hawser the second time in pulling her off; and in doing this, the "Pinola" passed well up through the barrier under Fort St. Philip, far enough to prove that the road was clear, but owing to the heavy bombardment of the mortar-fleet, she was not heard or seen. Participated in the bombardment and passage of Forts Jackson and St. Philip, Chalmette batteries, and capture of New Orleans; also in the bombardment, passage, and repassage of batteries at Vicksburg, and engagement with the rebel iron-clad "Arkansas." Blockaded off Mobile in the fall of 1862; was ordered North to command the iron-clad "Sangamon." Was promoted to Commander, September 3, 1862; detached from "Sangamon," and appointed Fleet-Captain, North Atlantic Squadron, under Real-Admiral S. P. Lee; commanded an expedition up the York River, co-operating with General Dix, in command of the Army Corps at the White House. In the winter of 1863, took command of the "Florida," destroyed two blockade-runners at Masonboro' Inlet, while attempting to run the blockade, just at the break of day, and in so doing drew the sharp fire of flying batteries on shore; was transferred to the command of the "Keystone State" in 1864; captured five blockade-runners while in command of her, and caused many others to throw overboard their cargoes in order to escape. Detached from "Keystone State," and ordered to the "Muscoota;" detached from the "Muscoota," and ordered to the "Metacomet," 1864-5; blockaded off Galveston, Texas, and commanded her in the attack on Mobile. Planned and directed the construction of torpedo-nets, and spread them from shore to shore of the Blakely River, which caught all the floating torpedoes sent down to destroy the vessel; also planned torpedo drag-nets, superintended the removal of one hundred and forty torpedoes, and successfully cleared the track so as to allow the squadron to pass up safely to the city of Mobile. Occupied Forts Huger and Tracy on the night of the evacuation by the rebel forces; was especially commended by Admiral Thatcher in his official report of the naval operations at that port; was detached from the "Metacomet," on her return to Philadelphia, in August, 1865, at the close of the war. In September, 1865, received orders to command the "Shamokin;" sailed in her for the coast of Brazil, where he remained until 1868. Promoted to Captain, May 27, 1868, and detached, returning to the United States by the mail-steamer. While in command of the "Shamokin" conveyed Minister Washburn to Paraguay. At Norfolk Navy Yard as Inspector of Ordnance, 1869-70; Navy Yard, Philadelphia, 1871-2; Navy Yard, Washington, 1872-4. Commissioned as Commodore, October 3, 1874; commanding Naval Station, League Island, 1878; commandant Navy Yard, League Island, 1878-80. Promoted to Rear-Admiral, March 10, 1882; commanding South Atlantic Station, 1882; commanding Asiatic Station, 1883. Retired on his own application, October, 1883.

Aaron K. Hughes.—Born in New York State. Appointed Acting Midshipman from New York, October 20, 1838; made first cruise in the Pacific Ocean, on board the frigate "Constitution," flag-ship of Commodore Alexander Clayton, Captain Daniel Turner commanding, from January, 1839, until November, 1841; in February, 1842, was ordered to the brig, "Boxer;" served in her in the Gulf of Mexico and in the West Indies, until the autumn of the same year; served in the receiving-ship "Pennsylvania," Norfolk, Virginia, from January, 1843, until June of the same year; was then ordered to the frigate "Macedonian," African Squadron, and served in her until the winter of 1844. Promoted to Passed Midshipman, May 28, 1844; served in the frigate "Columbia," coast of Brazil, from the fall of 1845 until the spring of 1846; served during the summer of 1846 in the office of the United States Coast Survey; in the fall of same year was ordered as Passed Midshipman to the steamer "Michigan," on the Western lakes, and served in her until the summer of 1848; served in the receiving-ship "North Carolina," as Passed Midshipman, from fall of 1849 until summer of 1850; was then ordered as Acting Master to the sloop "St. Mary's," which order was revoked before that vessel went to sea; in about a month after, was ordered to the sloop "Albany," and served in her as Acting Master in the West Indies and Gulf of Mexico, for two years and one month, and was granted leave from her in the latter part of the fall of 1852; in the winter of 1852, was ordered as Acting Master to the receiving-ship "Ontario," where he received a warrant as Master, in the line of promotion, and served in her until the summer of 1853, when he was detached and granted leave of absence. Promoted to Lieutenant, August, 1853, and in December of same year, was ordered as Lieutenant in sloop-of-war "Decatur," Pacific Squadron, until August of 1856; made the passage through the Straits of Magellan, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, occupying eighty-three days, or one hundred and eighteen days from Rio Janeiro, Brazil, to Valparaiso, Chili; while attached to this vessel in Puget Sound, Washington Territory, where he passed the winter of 1855-6, had an engagement on shore at the town of Seattle, with five hundred hostile Indians, who had attempted to murder the inhabitants, pillage and destroy the place; but through the unremitting watchfulness of the late Commodore Guert Gansevoort, their objects were frustrated by the landing of the officers and crew of the "Decatur;" engagement commenced at 8 A.M., and ended at 4 P.M., on the 26th day of January, 1856. It was estimated that the Indians lost thirty-five killed and thirty wounded. This ended hostilities in the Territory. In the winter of 1856-7, ordered as Lieutenant, and served on board the receiving-ship "Alleghany," Baltimore, as Executive Officer until the fall of 1857, when he was ordered as Lieutenant and Executive Officer to the store-ship "Supply," of the African and Brazil Squadrons, serving until the fall of 1858; after a month's leave, was again ordered to the receiving-ship "Alleghany," where he served as a Lieutenant until June, 1859; was then ordered as a Lieutenant to the "San Jacinto," and served in her as Second Lieutenant, Executive Officer, and about six weeks in command of that vessel, until January, 1860; was then ordered by the flag-officer commanding the African Squadron to the sloop "Portsmouth" as Executive Officer, and served in her until June of same year; was then reordered to the "San Jacinto," at the Island of Madeira, and on her way to St. Paul de Loanda, west coast of Africa, was sent as prize-master of the captured slaver "Storm King," and after taking charge of that vessel two hundred miles to the westward of the Congo River, and conveying six hundred and nineteen recaptured Africans to Monrovia, Liberia, a distance of fifteen hundred miles, delivered them to the charge of the Reverend John Seys, Government Agent there; brought the prize to Norfolk, Virginia, in September, 1860; in December, 1860, ordered as Lieutenant to receiving-ship "Princeton," at Philadelphia—served in her until April 23, 1861, on which day he was ordered to the Philadelphia City ice-boat, which had been improvised into a man-of-war in less than twenty-four hours, as Executive, under Commander (now Rear-Admiral) Oliver S. Glisson; served in her in the Chesapeake, convoying government transports with troops and munitions of war, until the middle of May of same year; was then ordered to the frigate "Mississippi,"—served in her as Second Lieutenant and Executive in the Gulf Squadron, until October 31, 1861, when he was ordered in command of the steamer "Water Witch;" serving in same squadron until April, 1862, when she was ordered North for repairs; while in command of the "Water Witch," in November, 1861, was ordered by Captain (now Rear-Admiral) L. M. Powell, while lying off Fort Morgan, near the entrance to Mobile Bay, to steam in toward the fort and endeavor to cut out a schooner, which, in attempting to run in, had grounded under the guns of the fort; when within range he opened fire upon the schooner, which was vigorously returned by the guns of Fort Morgan, and from the guns of a masked battery to the eastward of the fort. This engagement lasted for more than an hour, when a signal to haul out of action was made by the officer above mentioned. In May, 1862, was ordered to command the gun-boat "Mohawk,"—served in her under Flag-Officer and Admiral Du Pont, South Atlantic Squadron, until June, 1863; while at Fernandina, Florida, as senior Naval Officer, was requested by the military authorities stationed there to accompany them on an expedition to St. Mary's, Georgia, for the purpose of supplying lumber for the troops. Accordingly, on November 9, 1862, the army transport having preceded him, steamed over to that place.

On approaching the town, they met the army transport with two companies of volunteers returning, they having been fired into by rebel troops stationed in the town,—one of their men being dangerously, and two supposed mortally wounded, were sent on board the "Mohawk" for medical treatment. He continued on his course to the town and made fast to the wharf, sending an officer on shore, who communicated with two women, apparently the only inhabitants of the town; they assured him that the men alluded to had been wounded by some foolish boys,—the account did not satisfy him. He then offered to give these women a safe conduct to Fernandina, which they declined. He then determined to fire into the town, but upon the earnest solicitation of Colonel Rich, commanding 9th Regiment, Maine Volunteers, decided to leave without molesting the place, upon the express understanding, however, that if a single shot was fired at the vessel, he would return and bombard the town. He had no sooner left the wharf than volleys of musketry were opened upon him from different parts of the town. The channel of the river was so narrow that he was obliged to drop anchor in order to get the vessel's head up stream, and as soon as this could be done he opened fire upon the town and destroyed the greater portion of it, completely driving the rebels out of the place. He subsequently learned that one hundred and fifty men were concealed there. In June, 1863, was ordered to command the gun-boat "Cimmaron,"—served in her in South Atlantic Squadron, under Rear-Admiral Dahlgren, until May, 1864; while in her he participated in the attack on the enemy's works before Charleston, August 17, 1863, and served in other engagements at the same place. In October, 1864, ordered to report to Acting Rear-Admiral Lee, as Ordnance-Officer, Mississippi Squadron; in February, 1865, was transferred as Executive-Officer to the Mound City Naval station, in which capacity he served until February, 1866; in April, 1866, was ordered as a member of the Naval General Court-Martial assembled at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and served on it until it was dissolved in June, 1866; in August, 1866, was ordered as Light-House Inspector of the Sixth Light-House District, at Charleston, South Carolina, where he served until August 7, 1868. Promoted to Lieutenant-Commander, July 16, 1862. Promoted to Commander, November 16, 1862. "In organizing the government for war, it was decided by the Chiefs of Departments that one naval officer skilled in surveying should be detached for special service to co-operate with army and navy, and Lieutenant Phelps was selected by ballot for that duty." In consequence of the destruction of light-boats, buoys, and ranges, and the erection of heavy batteries by the rebels, the Potomac River was rendered almost impassable, and at this critical moment, when the safety of Washington was hazarded, a survey and chart of the river became imperative. For this purpose, six steamers were placed at the disposal of Lieutenant Phelps. Selecting two, he, in June, successfully executed the work, which fully answered the requirements of the country. Transferred to steamer "Corwin" for secret service, September 24, 1861. Examined five of the inlets of North Carolina, and surveyed and buoyed Hatteras Inlet, for the introduction of expeditions into the interior waters of that State; skirmished with rebel gunboats, Pamlico Sound, November 9, 1861; engagement with rebel gunboat "Curlew," Hatteras Inlet, November 14, 1861; received compliments of Secretary of Navy; secret service in Virginia waters, December, 1861; attached to North Atlantic Blockading Squadron, March, 1862; assigned to command of division for operations in rear of Gloucester Point, Virginia, April 1, 1862; York River, April 21, three engagements with Yorktown and Gloucester Point batteries; skirmish with rebels, Queen's Point, Virginia, captured five, and caused the destruction of two of the enemy's vessels,—prevented destruction of White House bridge, May 4, 1862; frequent skirmishes with main body of rebel army retreating from Yorktown, May 5 and 6; battle of West Point, Virginia, ascended the Matipony River, and prevented the junction of a large force of rebels with main army, May 7; made reconnoissance charts of Matipony and Pamunky Rivers. Commissioned as Lieutenant-Commander, July 16, 1862. In obedience to the demands of Congress and an order of the Navy Department, executed a close and complete survey of the Potomac River, opposed in the work by enemy's infantry and artillery, July 29, 1862, to March 1, 1863; commanded steamer "Corwin," on special service, from March, 1863, to December, 1864,—principally employed in making surveys in anticipation of naval and military movements, and in examining dangers in the way of blockaders and transports; ironclad "Saugus," December, 1864; steam-sloop, "Juniata," January 3, 1865; commanded the "Juniata" at the capture of Fort Fisher, January 15, 1865; South Atlantic Blockading Squadron, January 21, 1865; commanded steamer "Lenapee," Atlantic Coast Squadron, March 2, 1865, to April 3, 1867; senior officer on coast of North Carolina, from March, 1865, to December, 1865. Commissioned as Commander, August 5, 1865; Mare Island Navy Yard, California, 1867-70; commanding receiving ship "Independence," 1870-1; commanding steam-sloop "Saranac," N. P. Station, 1871-3. Commissioned as Captain, June 19, 1871; Navy Yard, Mare Island, California, 1873-7; commanding receiving-ship "Independence," September, 1877, to March, 1879. Promoted to Commodore, January 13, 1879; commanding Navy Yard, Mare Island, Cal., January 15, 1881, to March 15, 1883; commanded South Atlantic Station, 1883-4. Promoted to Rear-Admiral, March 1, 1884. Retired November 2, 1884.

John H. Upsher.—Born in Virginia, December 5, 1823. Appointed from Virginia, November 4, 1841; attached to frigate "Congress," Mediterranean Squadron, 1841-3; sloop "St. Marys," Mediterranean Squadron, 1843-6; Home Squadron during Mexican War; in the Naval Battery during the bombardment of Vera Cruz; Naval School, 1847. Promoted to Passed Midshipman, August 10, 1847; frigate "Cumberland," Mediterranean Squadron, 1849-50; ordnance duty, 1852; store-ship "Supply," East India Squadron, 1853-6. Promoted to Master, 1855. Commissioned as Lieutenant, September 14, 1855; ordnance duty, Washington Navy Yard, 1856-7; sloop "Cumberland," coast of Africa, 1858-9; Instructor at Naval Academy, 1859-60; North Atlantic Blockading Squadron, 1861; at capture of forts at Hatteras, North Carolina; steam-frigate "Wabash," South Atlantic Blockading Squadron, 1861; present at battle of Port Royal; commanding steamer "Flambeau," South Atlantic Blockading Squadron, 1862-3; several expeditions up the rivers of South Carolina. Commissioned as Lieutenant Commander, July 16, 1862; commanding steam-frigate "Minnesota," flag-ship, North Atlantic Blockading Squadron, 1863-4; commanding steamer "A. D. Vance," North Atlantic Blockading Squadron, 1864-5; at capture of Fort Fisher, January, 1865; commanding steamer "Frolic," European Squadron, 1865-7. Commissioned as Commander, July 25, 1866; commanding apprentice-ship "Saratoga," 1868-70; special duty, New London, Connecticut, 1871-3. Promoted to Commodore, July, 1880; commandant Navy Yard, New York, 1882-4. Promoted to Rear-Admiral, October, 1884; commanding Pacific Station, 1884-5. Retired on his own application, June, 1888.

F. A. Roe.—Born in Elmira, N. Y., October 4, 1823. Appointed Acting Midshipman, October 19, 1841; after six months' service at sea was warranted, February 3, 1842; ordered to sloop-of-war "John Adams;" served a full cruise on the coast of Brazil and south and east coast of Africa; detached from the "John Adams," May 29, 1844; ordered to sloop-of-war "Yorktown," September 3, 1844; made cruise on that ship on the west coast of Africa, as a Midshipman doing a Lieutenant's duty; detached from the "Yorktown," June 4, 1846; ordered to the sloop-of-war "Boston," October 5, 1846, bound to the Gulf of Mexico to join the squadron under Commodore O. H. Perry, blockading Vera Cruz, Mexico; was shipwrecked on that vessel on Eleuthera Island, West Indies; ship was a total loss; detached from the "Boston," February 24, 1847; ordered to the steamer "Alleghany," fitting out at Memphis, Tennessee, February 24, 1847; served on that vessel until her arrival at Norfolk, Virginia, October 20, 1847. Detached from the "Alleghany" and ordered to the Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., October 20, 1847; graduated from the Naval Academy, July 12, 1848 and promoted to Passed Midshipman from August 10, 1847, being a year late in going to the Academy; detached from the Academy and granted ninety days' leave of absence, July 12, 1848. Ordered to the sloop-of-war "Albany," September 26, 1848, and cruised in the West India Islands; detached from "Albany," August 13, 1849; was dismissed from the service by sentence of court-martial, for disobedience of an illegal order, October 23, 1849; reappointed a Passed Midshipman from August 10, 1847, to take original rank and place in Navy List, September 27, 1850. Ordered to Coast Survey, but the orders were revoked, October 9, 1850; ordered as a watch officer to the mail steamer "Georgia;" served two years as Executive Officer of the "Georgia," October 23, 1850; detached from the "Georgia," November 24, 1852. Ordered to the brig "Porpoise," of the North Pacific and Behring Strait Expedition, December 2, 1852 (was appointed Acting Master to do the duty of Lieutenant); served as Executive Officer of the "Porpoise" until the reorganization of the squadron in China under the Acting Commodore, John Rodgers, in August, 1854. While in China, as Executive Officer of the "Porpoise," had an action with a fleet of thirteen heavy armored pirate junks, in Koulan Bay; destroyed six of these junks, defeated the pirate fleet and dispersed its vessels. It was a hot action of two hours, fought under canvas under way. Detached from the "Porpoise," August, 1854; ordered and appointed an Acting Lieutenant, commanding and Executive Officer of the flag-ship "Vincennes," exploring expedition; made a cruise in the Arctic regions as high as latitude 72° 5' N., and along the north and east coasts of Siberia and Japan, and Kurile Islands; detached from the squadron and the "Vincennes," November 3, 1855, and on arrival at San Francisco, Cal., ordered East to await orders; warranted as a Master in the Navy, August 8, 1855. Promoted to a Lieutenant, September 14, 1855; total service to this date, ten years and nine months; ordered to the Coast Survey schooner, "Bowditch," February 21, 1856, coast of Georgia, surveying coast; detached from the Coast Survey Service and ordered to the frigate "Macedonian" (Fourth Lieutenant), April 17, 1858; served the cruise in the "Macedonian" in the Gulf of Mexico and Mediterranean; detached from the Mediterranean on expiration of cruise, July 14, 1860; ordered to ordnance duty, New York Navy Yard, September 13, 1860; service as Assistant Inspector of Ordnance until July 14, 1861, when applied for service afloat at the front, civil war being declared; ordered to the U. S. S. "Pensacola," August 2, 1861, at Washington, D. C., fitting out for passage down the Potomac, which was blocked by rebel batteries. While preparing for sea was ordered temporarily, in great haste, in consequence of the battle and defeat at Bull Run, with 500 seamen to occupy Fort Ellsworth, near Alexandria, Va. Occupied the Fort, which was General McClellan's left, until the army moved, when he returned to the "Pensacola." Was Executive Officer of the "Pensacola" at the memorable passage of that ship down the Potomac River, through nine miles of batteries under constant fire. Passage successfully made, accompanied by the President and his Cabinet until under fire. Carried the ship ("Pensacola") to New Orleans, led the starboard (van) column of the Farragut fleet at the battle and passage of Forts Jackson and St. Phillip, and eighty miles above the Chalmette Forts (earthworks and heavy guns). Was specially commended for good conduct on this occasion by Commodore Henry Morris, and recommended for promotion to grade of Commander; detached from the "Pensacola," at New Orleans, August 5, 1862, and ordered to command the gun-boat "Katahdin," and same day fought the battle of Baton Rouge, against John C. Breckenridge. Promoted to the grade of Lieutenant-Commander, by appointment, August 6, 1862; detached from "Katahdin," February 2, 1863. and ordered North by Admiral Farragut on account of failing health. During this service on the Mississippi was in several engagements and constant skirmishes with the enemy, fights at Plaquemine, Bonnet Carré, College Point, and the engagement with and destruction of the Rebel iron-clad ram "Arkansas." Commissioned a Lieutenant-Commander from July 16, 1862, on March 4, 1863; and ordered to command the "Neptune," August 27, 1863, but orders changed on September 4, 1863, and ordered to command the double-ender and paddle-wheel steamer "Sassacus," fitting out at Boston. Commanded the "Sas-acus" off Wilmington on the blockade for two weeks, and destroyed two valuable blockade runners (English steamships). Was ordered to the sounds of North Carolina, until July 20, 1864, when detached on account of sickness and sent to the hospital, Norfolk, Va. During the service of North Carolina was engaged in action with the Rebel ram "Albemarle" and gun-boat "Bombshell." The battle took place on May 5, 1864, in Albemarle Sound. Attacked in the evening by broadside of shot at close quarters and ramming. The ramming disabled the "Albemarle," and she retreated, leaking badly, up the sound to Plymouth, N. C., or Roanoke River. To keep from sinking, the ram ran aground at a spot near Plymouth. The "Bombshell," a small gun-boat, surrendered to the "Sassacus," in the first of the engagement, and her surrender was received by the "Sassacus," which took possession of her. July 22, 1864, is dated a letter of thanks and commendation from the Secretary of the Navy, and advancement of five numbers in grade for her commander for "gallant and meritorious conduct before the enemy." Having been discharged from the hospital on November 11, 1864, was ordered to command the U. S. ship "Michigan," on the Lakes. During this command he suppressed a general insurrection of the miners of the iron region at Marquette, and of the copper region at Houghton, saved the town of Marquette from being sacked by miners, and had the privateer "Georgian," captured by English authority at Collingswood, Canada. Detached from the "Michigan" and Lake service, and wait orders, April 7, 1866; ordered to the "Madawaska," June 13, 1866 (subsequently the "Tennessee"), as Executive Officer of trial service of the engineers and machinery. Promoted to the rank of Commander, July 25, 1866; succeeded Commodore S. C. Rowan, August, 1866, in the command of the "Madawaska," until the completion of the work; detached from the "Madawaska," January 29, 1867, and ordered to "Tacony," double-ender, fitting out at Norfolk, Va., for Gulf of Mexico. Was ordered by Rear-Admiral Palmer to command the Mexican Gulf Division of his squadron, and stationed at Vera Cruz. During this command at Vera Cruz, at the time of the capture and execution of the Prince Maximilian, and during the change of government to a republic under President Juarez, saw the last of the evacuation of the French from Mexico. Took the famous Santa Anna a prisoner out of an American steamer, and sent him out of Mexico. Was employed frequently as negotiator between General Benevidez, of the Republican army, and Burreau, the Imperial Governor of Vera Cruz. Received the surrender of Vera Cruz and San Juan d'Ulloa from the hands of General Gomez, who refused to surrender to Benevidez or Juarez. when Maximilian was executed. Preserved order in Vera Cruz and established a provisional government until the city was occupied by the Republican troops under Benevidez. Detached from the "Tacony," at Pensacola, August 3, 1867, after Mexican affairs were settled, and ordered to Washington. Sent for by the President (Johnson) in cabinet-meeting, and received his thanks and congratulations for good conduct in Mexico. On this occasion President

Johnson ordered the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Welles, to promote this officer, but the verbal order was forgotten and not carried out. Ordered as Fleet Captain of the Asiatic Fleet, under Rear-Admiral S. C. Rowan, August 3, 1867, in U. S. frigate "Delaware" (née "Piscataqua"), fitting out at Portsmouth, N. H. Served full cruise, three years, as Fleet Captain in U. S. Frigate "Delaware," Asiatic Station. Sea service to that date, twenty-two years and seven months; shore service three years; detached from "Delaware," November, 1870, having arrived at New York from China, and wait orders; ordered to Examination Board for promotion, March 15, 1872. Commissioned as Captain, April 1, 1872; ordered to command naval rendezvous, at San Francisco, Cal., August 5, 1872; detached and waiting orders, March 17, 1873; ordered as Executive Officer and Captain of the Yard, Boston Navy Yard, June 12, 1873; detached and ordered to command the frigate "Lancaster," at Key West, Fla., bound to Brazil, February 28, 1874; made cruise to Brazil, and served as flag-ship; was chief of staff again; detached from "Lancaster," having returned from cruise, Brazil Station, July 16, 1875; ordered to Naval Station, New London, August 9, 1875; detached from Naval Station, at New London, and placed on furlough by Secretary George M. Robeson, July 18, 1876; ordered as member of Board of Examination at Naval Academy, Annapolis, March 3, 1879; detached from that duty, April 5, 1879; ordered as president of a Board to revise the allowance books of the Bureaus of the Navy Department, under commission as Captain, November 7, 1879; received letter of commendation from Admiral Le Roy, with whom he served as Chief of Staff, etc., etc.; having completed the work of the Revisory Board, was detached and placed on waiting orders; ordered to Torpedo Station, Newport, R. I., July, 1883, as President of a Board of Examiners, of a class of thirty commissioned officers, with experiments and conduct of that station; in August completed, and detached again for duty; ordered as Governor of the U. S. Naval Station for Retired Seamen (Naval Asylum), at Philadelphia, October 31, 1883; relieved Rear-Admiral A. C. Rhind on that day, and assumed command. Commissioned as Rear Admiral in the Navy, November 3, 1884; passed the examination before two boards, medical and professional; detached from the command of the Naval Asylum, Philadelphia, October 4, 1885, and transferred to the retired list, having reached sixty-two years of age.

James E. Jouett.—Born in Kentucky, February 27, 1828. Appointed from Kentucky, September 10, 1841. Commissioned Passed Midshipman, August 10, 1847; Master, September 14, 1855; Lieutenant, September 15, 1855; Lieutenant-Commander, July 16, 1862; Commander, July 25, 1866; Captain, January 6, 1874; Commodore, January 11, 1883; Rear-Admiral,

February 19, 1886. Rear-Admiral Jouett entered the navy of the United States as a midshipman September 10, 1841, and passed through the successive grades of the service to the outbreak of the late war, when, on the night of November 17, 1861, holding then the position of a lieutenant in the United States Navy, and serving on board the United States frigate "Santee," made himself conspicuous for gallantry in conducting a hazardous boat expedition against the Confederate vessel of war "Royal Yacht," off Galveston, Texas, and in capturing and destroying said vessel, in which encounter he received a severe pike wound in the arm and side, and for which hazardous and important service he was recommended by his immediate commanding officer, Captain Henry Eagle, for a command suitable to his rank; he was complimented in general orders by Flag-Officer William W. McKean, commanding the squadron, and ordered by the Secretary of the Navy, who officially expressed the Department's appreciation of his "daring and successful exploit," to proceed to Washington, so that he might "be given a command worthy of his gallantry." Later, when commanding the United States gunboat "Metacomet" in the fight in Mobile Bay, August 5, 1864, he promptly pursued and captured the Confederate war steamer "Selma" after a desperate conflict, and also rendered other gallant service during that fight, for which he was commended to the Secretary of the Navy by Admiral David G. Farragut, commander-in-chief, who reported that "Lieutenant-Commander Jouett's promptness and coolness throughout the fight merited high praise, received his warmest commendation, and was worthy of his reputation." For the gallantry displayed on that occasion Commander James E. Jouett was recommended by a board of officers, of which Admiral Farragut was president, appointed in 1865, "to consider the claims of officers of the Navy for advancement for heroic conduct in battle," to be promoted thirty numbers; but for some reasons the advancement was never made. Lieutenant Jouett subsequently commanded the "Montgomery" and "R. R. Cuyler," and was actively engaged in blockade duty. His next command was the side-wheel wooden steamer "Metacomet," which participated in the fight in Mobile Bay, and was lashed to the side of Rear-Admiral Farragut's flag-ship, the "Hartford," and passed the forts with her. It was in this fight, August 5, 1864, that Captain (then Lieutenant-Commander) Jouett was again eminent and conspicuous in battle. Rear-Admiral Farragut says in his report: "Finding myself raked by the rebel gunboats, I ordered the 'Metacomet' to cast off and go in pursuit of them, one of which, the 'Selma,' she succeeded in capturing. Captain Jouett was after her in a moment, and in an hour's time he had her as his prize * * * Lieutenant-Commander Jouett's conduct during the whole affair commands my warmest commendation. The 'Morgan' and 'Gaines' succeeded in escaping under the protection of the guns of Fort Morgan, which would have been prevented had the other gunboats been as prompt in their movements as the 'Metacomet.'" Again he reports: "Our little consort, the 'Metacomet,' was under my immediate eye during the whole of the action up to the moment I ordered her to cast off in pursuit of the 'Selma.' The coolness and promptness of Lieutenant-Commander Jouett, throughout, merit high praise; his whole conduct was worthy of his reputation."

Extracts from Commodore Foxhall A. Parker's "Battle of Mobile Bay."

At a little past eight, however, the Admiral, observing that all his vessels were clear of the fort, made signal—"Gunboats chase enemy's gunboats!" The signal was hardly above the "Hartford's" deck, when Jouett, cutting the fasts which bound him to that vessel, started in obedience to it, followed at some distance by the "Itasca," "Kennebec," and "Port Royal." His vessel was very fast, but owing to the fact that she drew much more water than the Confederate gunboats, he found himself, before long, dragging the bottom. The executive officer, Lieutenant Sleeper—than whom no cooler man lived—reported to him that the "Metacomet" had a foot less water under her bottom than her draught. This was startling! for should the vessel ground hard, the pursuit might turn upon the pursuer, and change the game somewhat. "Call the leadsmen in from the chains, Mr. Sleeper!" ordered Jouett. Mr. Sleeper looked amazed. "I tell you," said Jouett, who idolized Farragut, and was a strict constructionist, "the admiral has directed me to follow these gunboats, and I am going to do it. Call the men in from the chains at once, sir, they are demoralizing me!" At this, the crew—who knew their commander well—set up a loud laugh, and the "Metacomet" continued in pursuit with the result we know. As commander of the United States Naval forces on the North Atlantic Station, Rear-Admiral James E. Jouett, by his prompt, firm and judicious course in the spring of 1855, during the rebellion on the Isthmus of Panama, restored order, re-established transit, prevented great destruction of property and loss of life, and was instrumental in bringing about the surrender of the insurgent forces in the United States of Colombia, and in effecting a peaceful solution of the United States of Colombia, and reflected credit on the United States of America. Retired February, 1890. By Act of Congress Rear-Admiral Jouett receives, on the retired list, the full pay of his grade as a reward for his distinguished services.

duty with the "Tuscarora," to make deep-sea soundings between the western coast of the United States and the shores of Japan, to determine the feasibility of laying a submarine cable on the bed of the Pacific. Fitted the ship for the work at Mare Island Yard, California, and began operations in September, 1873. Used Sir Wm Thomson's machine for sounding with pianoforte wire, at that time comparatively untried; improved the machine and developed its working capacity, sounding with more ease and accuracy in four thousand fathoms than was formerly done in five hundred fathoms, using rope. Ascertained "True Continental Outline" from Cape Flattery to San Diego; ran line of soundings from San Diego to Yokohama, Japan, via Hawaiian and Bonin Islands. Returning, sounded from Yokohama to Cape Flattery, Washington Territory, via the Aleutian Islands. Found off the coast of Japan the most extraordinary depths ever known, the deepest water being four thousand six hundred and fifty-five fathoms, or more than five and one-fourth statute miles. Invented three different cylinders or cups for bringing up specimens of soil from ocean-bed, which are now in use both in the naval service and the coast survey.

(Extract from "Address to the Mathematical and Physical Section of the British Association, Glasgow, September 7, 1876, by Sir William Thomson, LL D., M.A., F.R.S., President of the Section: "

"I wish I could speak to you of the veteran Henry, generous rival of Faraday in electro-magnetic discovery; of Peirce, the founder of high mathematics in America; of Bache, and of the splendid heritage he has left to America and to the world in the United States Coast Survey; of the great school of astronomers which followed Gould, Newton, Newcomb, Watson, Young, Alvan Clarke, Rutherford, Draper (father and son); of Commander Belknap and his great exploration of the Pacific depths by pianoforte wire, with imperfect apparatus supplied from Glasgow, out of which he forced a success in his own way.")

Senior officer present at Honolulu when riot occurred on the election of David Kalakaua as King of Hawaiian Islands; landed companies of blue-jackets and marines from "Tuscarora" and "Portsmouth," restored order, and occupied the town six days, at request of the king, when, the new government being firmly established, withdrew the force to the ships. Received therefor, in conjunction with Commander Skerrett, commanding "Portsmouth," the thanks of the king, the legislative assembly, the chamber of commerce, and the consular corps. Detached from "Tuscarora," October, 1874; ordered as hydrographic inspector, United States Coast Survey, December, 1874; asked for other orders, and was ordered to command United States receiving-ship "Ohio," Boston, January, 1875. Commissioned as Captain, January 25, 1875; March, 1875, obliged to go south on account of ill health, due to a cold contracted while doing deep-sea work; detached from "Ohio," and ordered to Navy Yard, Pensacola, as captain of the yard; June, 1875, appointed member of Board of Visitors to Naval Academy; October, 1875, ordered as member of Board of Examiners of Midshipmen at Naval Academy; detached from Navy Yard, Pensacola, May 1, 1876, and put on special duty with reference to deep-sea sounding; December 1, 1876, ordered as Commandant Navy Yard, Pensacola, 1877-80; commanding Alaska, Pacific Station, 1881-3; Navy Yard, Norfolk, 1883-5. Commissioned as Lieutenant-Commander, July 16, 1862; "Maratanza," blockading Cape Fear River, having driven off working parties from batteries near Fort Caswell, was attacked by a battery of Whitworth guns, having one officer and one petty officer killed, and seven men wounded; ordered to command the "Hunchback," in sounds of North Carolina, October 1, 1862; March 14, 1863, battle at Newbern with the forces of Hill and Pettigrew, which attacked Camp Anderson and the "Hunchback;" they had eighteen pieces of artillery and several thousand infantry. After an action of an hour and a half, she succeeded in silencing the guns and compelling the army to withdraw. Commander Murray, in his official report, said: "The firing of the 'Hunchback' was excellent, and the manner in which Lieutenant-Commander McCann handled the battery which the enemy unmasked upon him in the morning was as gratifying to us, and as creditable to himself, as it must have been mortifying and vexatious to the enemy." April, 1863, during the siege of Washington, N. C., had command of five gunboats, with which he frequently engaged and silenced the batteries at Hill's and Swain's Point, on the Pamlico, and assisted in sending reinforcements and supplies to the garrison and gunboats at Washington; September 6, left the sounds with the "Hunchback," which was laid up at Norfolk for repairs; November, 1863, was ordered to command the "Kennebec," West Gulf Blockading Squadron, then commanded by Admiral Thatcher, and soon after by Admiral Farragut; had thirteen months' active service blockading Mobile, and participating in several engagements with the batteries and Fort Morgan, while attacking stranded blockade-runners. She was mentioned by Admiral Farragut in a congratulatory order to the fleet on the occasion of the destruction of the "Ivanhoe," under the guns of Battery G and Fort Morgan. Captured at sea three blockade-runners loaded with cotton,—the "Marshall I. Smith," steamer "Grey Jacket," and the "John Scott," with forty-five blockade-runners and rebels officers,—the vessels and cargoes sold for half a million of dollars; battle of Mobile Bay, August 5, 1864. The "Kennebec" was lashed to the "Monongahela," fifth in line of battle, and in that position entered the bay, engaging the vessels and forts; while ramming the iron-clad "Tennessee" at full speed with the "Monongahela," she had several officers and men wounded, one of the latter mortally, by a shell from the "Tennessee," when the vessels were touching. After the collision the "Tennessee's" boat's davits and falls were left on the port anchor, and the wreck of her boat across the "Kennebec's" stern; after this, a 10-inch shell from Fort Morgan passed through the "Kennebec's" quarter, the splinters knocking down a man at the engine bell. At night she pursued and attacked the "Morgan," that had eluded the fleet below, and escaped by getting into shoal water at Dog River Bar. December, 1864, detached from "Kennebec," command of "Tahoma," February to August, 1865; disabled in a gale in Gulf Stream, returned to Norfolk, and thence to Boston; Naval Academy, 1866; command of "Tallapoosa," West Gulf Squadron, March, 1866, to January 5, 1867; Naval rendezvous, Philadelphia, 1867-8; Navy Yard, Philadelphia, 1869-70; Inspector of Lights, Eighth District, October, 1870, to September, 1871; commanding "Nipsic," North Atlantic Squadron, October 1, 1871, to August 27, 1872. Silas Wright Terry.—Born in Kentucky, December 28, 1842. Appointed Acting Midshipman, Naval Academy, September 28, 1858. Appointed Ensign, September 16, 1862. Commissioned Lieutenant, February 22, 1864. Commissioned Lieutenant-Commander, July 25, 1866. Commissioned Commander, July 11, 1877. Upon the outbreak of the Rebellion in 1861, before completing academic course, was ordered to New York Navy Yard for active service, and, from June, 1861, to September, 1862, attached to the sloop "Dale," blockading on the Atlantic coast; engagement with rebel sharpshooters on a boat expedition up South Edisto River, April, 1862; attached to flag-ship "Wabash," September and October; "Alabama" in November; December, 1862, aide on staff of Rear-Admiral Lee; from March to July, 1863, steam-sloop "Dakotah," blockading mouth of Cape Fear River; flag-ship "Black Hawk," Mississippi Squadron, from September, 1863, to October, 1864; took part in Red River Expedition, and at Alexandria, La.; was placed in command of transport "Benefit," with a detachment of fifty men and two brass howitzers, to carry despatches and supplies to Admiral Porter. In a letter to the Secretary of the Navy, dated May 4, 1864, Admiral Porter says: "I endeavor to do justice to all officers under my command, but have failed to mention the gallant conduct of Ensign S. W. Terry on the expedition up Red River. He was placed on board of the transport 'Benefit' to take despatches to me at Springfield Landing. I had a field-piece and a twenty-four pounder howitzer placed on this vessel, and a part of the crew of the flag-ship to go to her. About fifty miles above Grand Ecure Mr. Terry discovered a battery of four guns facing down the river, on which he opened fire with his howitzers and steamed on. The battery opened a quick fire on him, striking the little vessel almost every time. The river captain of the 'Benefit' was killed, together with three other men, but the little transport fought her way through and brought me the despatches, which were important. Such cool and brave conduct gives promise of a good officer. I commend him to the notice of the Department." The President, "with the advice and consent of the Senate," advanced Lieutenant Terry five numbers in his grade "for gallant conduct on the expedition up Red River." In May, 1864, was appointed Detail Officer on the staff of Admiral Porter, and served in this capacity until the Admiral was relieved at the close of the war, May 5, 1865. Was present during the operations of the naval force under Admiral Porter against Forts Fisher and Anderson, and at the capture of Wilmington in February, 1865; afterwards in the culminating events in James River, and present at the fall of Richmond; accompanied President Lincoln and Admiral Porter when they entered Richmond the morning it was occupied by the army of General Grant; from August, 1865, to November, 1868, served on steam-sloop "Ticonderoga," European Station; Naval Academy, 1869 to 1871; Executive Officer of the flag-ships "Severn" and "Worcester," from March, 1871, to June, 1873; 1873 to 1874, Naval Observatory; 1874 to 1877, Naval Academy; 1877 to 1880, Inspector Fifth Light-House District; May, 1881, to December, 1882, commanding "Marion," South Atlantic Station; while at Montevideo in November, 1881, was ordered by cable to "proceed to Heard Island, lat. 53° 20' S., long. 73° 30' E., to rescue crew of bark

'Trinity,' suppose to be there." Left Montevideo November 14, 1881, stopping for coal and supplies at Cape Town; reached Heard Island January 15, and rescued thirty-three of the "Trinity's" crew, who had been wrecked October, 1880, and just in time to save them from starvation, as the little food saved from the wreck had been exhausted several months before, and they were existing upon such sea-fowls and their eggs as could be obtained on this desolate island. From Cape Town Commander Terry wrote the Department, December 20, that he would sail for Heard Island on the 24th, and hoped to be back by the 20th of February. His hopes were realized, for on the 20th of February, 1882, the "Marion" anchored off Cape Town, and Commander Terry's cable despatch announcing the rescue of the "Trinity's" crew was received by the Secretary of the Navy the same afternoon. The day after reaching Cape Town, Commander Terry was requested by Lloyd's agents to render assistance to the English ship "Poonah," stranded on the beach about ten miles northeast of the port. The request was complied with, though it was known the commander of the English Squadron, then lying off Simonstown, had declined to render any assistance. Fortunately, the efforts of the "Marion" were successful in hauling the "Poonah" off, and she was soon able to continue her voyage to India. For this service Commander Terry received the thanks of the Colonial Government, embodied in a resolution of the ministry, accompanied by a flattering letter from the Governor and High Commissioner, Sir Hercules Robinson; also the thanks of Her Majesty's Government, transmitted through the British Minister at Washington, to the Department of State and the Navy Department. From April, 1883, to October, 1884, League Island Navy Yard; October 14, 1884, to May 26, 1886, commanding the training-squadron, comprising "Portsmouth," "Jamestown," and "Saratoga;" October, 1887, appointed member of the Naval Examining and Retiring Board to May, 1893. Promoted Captain, January 9, 1893; commanding U. S. S. "Newark," May, 1893, to June, 1895; was present under command of Rear-Admiral Benham during the insurrection in Rio, from October, 1893, to March, 1894; from July, 1895, to to date, commanding the receiving-ship "Franklin," Norfolk, Va.

The cause of Captain Corbin's retirement is fully explained in the following report of the Naval Committee to the House of Representatives:

The Committee on Naval Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 3532) for the relief of Capt. Thomas G. Corbin, having had the same under consideration, respectfully submit the following report:

Captain Corbin was appointed an acting midshipman in 1838. He passed through all the intermediate grades of the service and in July, 1866, was promoted to the rank of captain. On the 21st of May, 1873, Captain Corbin was ordered to report in Washington for examination preliminary to promotion. On appearing before the examining board, he was informed that he would be required to submit to an oral examination to test his proficiency in the knowledge of his profession. He thereupon filed a paper, electing, under section 3 of the Act of April 26, 1864, section 1500, Revised Statutes, to be absent during the examination of his case, which paper is as follows:

"MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN OF THE BOARD: I am now given to understand that the board proposes to examine me in person, by interrogatories, to ascertain my proficiency in one or more branches of professional knowledge.

"I respectfully object to any such examination, as entirely beyond the purview of the several acts of Congress under which the board is constituted.

"I call the attention of the board to the accompanying paper, marked A, embodying briefly the construction of the Act of 1864, which much careful consideration convinces me is the only tenable one. I refrain from presenting to the board at this time arguments which make it seem to me impossible that Congress should ever mean to subject a naval officer of the rank of Captain, after thirty-five years' service, to the same sort of examination as a clerk in one of the executive departments.

"For at least eighty years of our national history the rank which I now hold was the highest to which an officer of the navy could attain. I should esteem myself wanting, not only in self-respect, but in the duty which you and I, gentlemen, alike owe to the honor and dignity of our professions, should I willingly consent to such an examination as is now proposed. Happily, as I think, the law requires from me no such degradation.

"The Act of 1864 leaves it optional with me to be present or absent during the pending investigation, and I hereby elect to be absent. In doing so, I enter my solemn protest against such withdrawal being allowed any weight in framing your report in my case. Upon every principle of honor with which I am acquainted, a failure to report an officer as fitted for promotion is equivalent to the expression of an opinion that, for some reason, you deem that officer unfit for promotion. If from any testimony before the board, from any record in the department, or from any answer to written interrogatories, the board shall find matter requiring personal explanation from me, I will cheerfully answer the summons of the board upon being 'duly notified' as required by third section of the Act of April 21, 1864.

"I respectfully request the board to examine and consider the accompanying paper.

"Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

"THOMAS G. CORBIN,

"Captain United States Navy."

He filed therewith an argument, which is as follows:

"Before examining the purport of the law, it is to be observed that the board is to be governed solely by the act of Congress itself, which confers no other power upon the executive department of the government than to appoint the members of the board. In this respect it differs from some other acts of a similar character, as for instance the Act of February 28, 1855, which directed the board of officers 'to perform their duty under such regulations as shall be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy.' Accordingly, the Secretary embodied his 'instructions' in a letter to the board dated June 20, 1855, acting, as he expressly said, under the power conferred by Congress. The act under consideration gives no such power, and, therefore, there is no right in the Secretary of the Navy or the President to prescribe rules for the government of the board. They must be governed by the act, and the act alone.

"Taking up the act itself, it seems clear that the normal mode of procedure was intended to be without the presence of the party whose fitness is to be investigated.

"1. The first section is evidently intended to embody all that was expected to be usually essential for the decision of the case. It says nothing of the presence of the party or of any such thing as a literary, quasi-scientific or professional interrogation of the officer himself. It looks entirely to the ascertaining of the officer's fitness by examination of witnesses and records.

"2. That a decision in this matter was thought possible, and was expected also, to be the usual mode, is made manifest by the 3d section, which states explicitly that any officer to be acted on by said board shall have the right to be present if he desires it. How could it be made more clear, that if he does not desire it, he need not appear?

"The right to appear is evidently based upon the supposition that something may occur to make it desirable for him to rebut testimony unfavorable to his professional character. In that case, he is given the right to make his own 'statement of his case,' to call witnesses, and to have the statement, the testimony of the witnesses, and his own 'examination' 'recorded.' This is the only 'examination' mentioned in the whole act (except where the first section speaks of examining records), and it most clearly points to his examination as a witness in regard to some fact or facts then under consideration. It has no relation at all analogous to that in the new civil service system.

"3. If such an examination as that just referred to had been in contemplation of the act, it would certainly have clearly prescribed the nature and scope of the different subjects to be taken up for the different classes of officers, and, in various ways, have expressed such a purpose.

"4. The last clause of section 3 requires a word of comment. It must be noted that it expressly looks to the case of an officer declining to appear, after notice, and it does not say that his failing to appear shall be ipso facto ground for an unfavorable verdict, nor even for censure. Its meaning is simply this. It says to the officer: 'Something has turned up in this investigation which it was thought you might wish to explain or deny, and you were notified to appear. You preferred to remain absent, and you are stopped from any objection on that score.' His absence, after notice, is not to enter into consideration at all as an element in making up the judgment of the board.

"Respectfully submitted,

"THOMAS G. CORBIN,
"Captain United States Navy."

In support of his right not to submit to an oral examination, as was required of him by the board, acting in pursuance to a circular of the department issued on the 25th of January, 1869, directing examining boards "to ascertain the fitness of the candidate for promotion by a rigorous personal examination as to his professional knowledge and qualifications." The Act of April 21, 1864, defines the duties of the examining board, and confers upon the Secretary of the Navy no authority to make any regulations in the premises, an authority which had been conferred by the Act of February 28, 1855. The omission of such authorization in the Act of 1864, it is evident, was intentional on the part of Congress, and not the result of accident. Still less could the Secretary of the Navy assume the power to subject an officer to an oral examination when the third section of the Act of 1864 expressly leaves it optional with the officer to appear or not in person before the board, as he may elect.

Captain Corbin refused, therefore, to appear before the board, which refused to recommend him for promotion. The Secretary of the Navy thereupon offered Captain Corbin an opportunity to reconsider his determination not to appear before the examining board, of which he refused to avail himself. The papers in the case were then, by request of Captain Corbin, placed before the President, who sustained the action of the department.

Captain Corbin still refusing to appear before the board for the purpose of an oral examination, on January 5, 1874, he was, by order of the Secretary, placed upon the retired list.

Captain Corbin then preferred a request to be furnished with a copy of the report of the examining board and of all matter on the files and records of the department touching his case, which was refused.

Your committee, having maturely examined the facts and the law in the case of Captain Corbin, have reached the conclusion that the department had no power to extend the scope of an act of Congress by requiring of an officer an oral examination as a prerequisite to promotion. It is evident that in imposing such a condition as a prerequisite to promotion the department exceeded its powers and practically usurped the functions of the law-maker. At most it can be contended that the department can make such regulations as are necessary to give effect to the act of Congress, but the circular of 1869 goes much further, and, in fact, violates section 3 of the Act of 1864. The act says, "any officer shall have the right to be present if he desires." The department tells him, "you must be present or you shall not be promoted." Such action is a clear usurpation; and your committee are further satisfied that the circular of 1869 was not intended to apply to officers in the higher grades of the service, but solely to those young men who, because of the extraordinary demand for officers caused by the outbreak of the late civil war, were graduated before they had completed the regular course at the Naval Academy. They are fortified in this opinion by the information that until 1872, when this novel construction was placed upon the act, no oral examination was ever required for promotion to the higher grades in the service.

The cases of Captains Pennock and Case and of Commander Davenport support this conclusion of your committee. The facts in the case of Captain Case are pari passu with those in the case under consideration. Captain Case declined to be present at the sittings of the board, but he was recommended for promotion without questioning his right to absent himself—this in 1868. Commander Davenport likewise refused to attend upon the board, and Captain Pennock during his examination was absent upon a cruise—this also in 1868.

You committee are clear that it was never the intention of the act to subject officers of high rank and long-established reputation to the humiliation of an oral technical examination, required in no other service in the world, and utterly ineffectual to any good purpose, when left to the arbitrary limitation of the Secretary of the Navy or an examining board. They, therefore, recommend the passage of the bill.

Again, in 1882 Mr. Morse, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, made an equally strong report, this time with the strong endorsement of Secretary Hunt; but, owing to the pressure of public business, neither report was acted upon by Congress, and Captain Corbin remains a Captain on the retired list.

COMMANDERS ON THE ACTIVE LIST.

Edwin White.—Born in Ohio, and appointed from that State to the United States Naval Academy, November 29, 1861; graduated November, 1864; February, 1865, ordered to Navy Yard, New York, and attached to receiving-ship "Vermont;" April of the same year ordered to frigate "Colorado," flag-ship of European Station. Promoted to Ensign November 1, 1866; to Master, December 1, 1866; and in March, 1867, ordered to steamer "Shamrock," on the same station. Promoted to Lieutenant, March 12, 1868; and in September following was ordered to steamer "Yantic" as navigator; served in that capacity in the West Indies until November, 1869, when her commander and others, having died of yellow fever, the ship was put out of commission at New York. Promoted to Lieutenant-Commander September 15, 1869; Hydrographic Office, Navy Department, January to September, 1870; Naval Academy, October, 1870, until April, 1871; Navy Yard, Philadelphia, until following September, when ordered as Executive Officer to the U. S. S. "Kansas;" ship sent to Havana upon report of massacre of students in November, where she remained for the protection of American citizens pending an expected outbreak; March, 1872, the ship detailed to receive on board, at Key West, a Nicaraguan surveying expedition, under command of Commander Crossman, and convey the party to Greytown; Commander Crossman, in attempting to land at Greytown, having been drowned, the command of the expedition devolved upon Commander Hatfield, of the "Kansas," who landed with the party, and directed Lieutenant-Commander White to command the ship. While in command, having proceeded to Aspinwall for coal and other supplies, he found the Spanish man-of-war "Pizarro" blockading the American steamer "Virginus," which steamer, at that time, had acquired the reputation of having successfully run the Spanish blockade on the Cuban coast. The master of the "Virginus" appealed to Lieutenant-Commander White for protection, and the Captain of the "Pizarro" informed him in person that he had orders to prevent the "Virginus" from going to sea. When the "Virginus" was ready for sea, Lieutenant-Commander White requested the United States Consul to bring her papers to him for examination; and, having carefully considered the case, was convinced that no power had the right to interfere with the steamer; that whatever had been her past record, there was nothing in evidence at that time which would warrant detention by a foreign cruiser. He then sent an officer with the Consul to deliver the steamer her papers, and informed the commanding officer of the "Pizarro," by letter, that, having investigated the present status of the "Virginus," he considered her free to sail without molestation, and trusted that no attempt would be made to detain her. To this letter no reply was received, and upon the "Virginus" making preparations for sea, the "Pizarro" followed suit. When the "Virginus" got under way, the "Kansas," being in readiness for sea, and for action as well, was interposed between the "Virginus" and the "Pizarro." The latter vessel got under way at once, and the three vessels proceeded to sea in that order. After a few hours' run it became evident that the "Pizarro" was no match for the "Virginus" in point of speed and, the master of the latter vessel having declared that he feared nothing further from the "Pizarro," the "Kansas" returned to Aspinwall, and the "Virginus" proceeded to the Venezuelan port for which she had cleared. In relation to the protection and conveying to sea of the "Virginus," the Navy Department addressed him a letter, saying: "Your whole course is approved in every respect;" commanding U. S. S. "Onward," on the Peruvian coast from September, 1872, to March, 1875, where, for months at a time, he was senior officer during the frequent turbulent periods; his reports of the condition of affairs on shore were commended by the commander-in-chief, and by the Navy Department; 1875-7 served on board the U. S. S. "Tennessee," as principal aide to Rear-Admiral Reynolds, commander-in-chief on the Asiatic Station; 1878, Torpedo Station, Newport, R. I.; 1879-82, Instructor in Seamanship, Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.; commanded the practice-ship "Dale," with naval cadets on board, during the summer of 1880; June, 1882, ordered to the "Hartford," flagship, Pacific Station; served as Executive Officer until April, 1884, when invalided home; special duty Navy Department, December, 1884, to April, 1885; May, 1885, Training Station, R. I. Promoted to Commander, March 4, 1886; during summer of 1886, Torpedo Station, Newport, R. I.; December, 1886, to October, 1888, commanding training-ship "Portsmouth," with naval apprentices, cruising to the coast of Europe during the summer months, and in the winter through the West India Islands; November, 1888, ordered as Equipment-Officer at the Navy Yard, Portsmouth, N. H.; ordered to the command of the U. S. S. "Concord," April, 1892. Ascended the Mississippi River to Memphis, Tenn., to participate in the celebration of the opening of the bridge across the river at that point. Afterwards went to Cairo, Illinois, and anchored in the Ohio River. This novel cruise for a vessel of sixteen feet draft attracted much attention throughout the country; on the return of the ship to the sea, stopping at all important river towns, much enthusiasm prevailed, and the display of patriotism at sight of a national vessel in those waters was very marked. Cruised with the North Atlantic Squadron, during summer of 1892; proceeded under telegraphic orders to Venezuela, September, 1892, to protect American interests during a prolonged revolution, and where our mail steamers had been interfered with; on the arrival of Admiral Walker, ordered to Colon to restore the traffic on the Isthmus, which had been interrupted by local authority. Attached to the fleet of Admiral Gherardi, in March, 1893, and participated in the Naval Review at Hampton Roads and New York; July, 1893, ordered as Equipment Officer of the Navy Yard, New York; June, 1895, ordered to Naval War College, Newport, R. I.; November, 1895, ordered as Commandant of Cadets, U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis. Crossed the Atlantic during the summers of 1896 and 1897, in command of Cadet Practice Ship Monongahela. Present duty, Commandant of Cadets.

George W. Pigman.—Born in Indiana. Appointed from Indiana, September 28, 1861; Naval School, 1861-4; steam-sloop "Brooklyn," flagship, Brazil Squadron, 1866-7. Promoted to Master, December 1, 1866; steam-sloop "Kansas," South Atlantic Squadron, 1868. Commissioned as Lieutenant, March 12, 1868. Commissioned as Lieutenant-Commander, October 28, 1869; iron-clad "Saugus," North Atlantic Fleet, 1870; Naval Academy, 1871-3; "Hartford," flag ship Asiatic Station, 1873-5; Naval Observatory, 1876-8; "Wachusett," South Atlantic Station, 1879-82; Hydrographic Office, 1882-4; Torpedo Station, 1884-5; "Tennessee," North Atlantic Station, 1885-6. Promoted to Commander, October, 1886; commanding "Alliance," South Atlantic Station, 1888-9; League Island Navy Yard, 1890, to October, 1891; commanding monitors at Richmond, Va., March, 1892, to July, 1895; commanding "Bennington," July, 1895, to April, 1897; Inspector Ordnance, Newport News, to date.

John McGowan.—Born in Delaware. Appointed from New Jersey, Master's Mate, March 8, 1862; duty in Potomac Flotilla. Promoted to Acting Master, May 8, 1862, and ordered to command "Wyandank," Potomac Flotilla; detached, February, 1863, and ordered to the "Florida," North Atlantic Station; detached, November, 1864, and ordered to the "State of Georgia," North Atlantic Station, until after fall of Fort Fisher, and then South Atlantic Station; April, 1865, after fall of Charleston, to Colon, N. G., protecting American interests; detached from "State of Georgia," August, 1865, and in November ordered to "Monongahela," North Atlantic Squadron; January, 1867, detached from "Monongahela," and in February ordered to "Tacony," Gulf Squadron; detached from "Tacony," October, 1867, and ordered same month to the receiving ship, Navy Yard, Philadelphia. Commissioned Master, March 12, 1868; detached from receiving ship, Philadelphia, September, 1868, and ordered to Asiatic Squadron. Promoted to Lieutenant, December 18, 1868; January, 1869, "Unadilla;" November, 1869, "Iroquois;" detached from "Iroquois," April, 1870, and ordered to Ordnance Duty, Navy Yard, Philadelphia. Promoted to Lieutenant-Commander, April 22, 1870; detached from Navy Yard, Philadelphia, October, 1870, and ordered to "Terror;" detached from "Terror;" August, 1871, granted leave; November, 1871, to Ordnance duty, Navy Yard, Philadelphia; July, 1872, leave, Europe; May, 1873, "Wachusett," European Station; April, 1874, "Juniata," European Station; December, 1875, leave, Europe; June, 1876, Hydrographic Office; September, 1879, "Marion," South Atlantic Station; detached. December, 1882; February, 1883, Navy Yard League Island; July, 1883, Naval Rendezvous, Philadelphia; September, 1885, Navy Yard, New York. Promoted to Commander, January 27, 1887; March 1, 1888, to command "Swatara," South Atlantic and Asiatic Stations; April, 1890, detached and granted sick leave, Europe; January, 1891, commanding Nautical School-ship, St. Mary's; March, 1894, detached, and to Navy Yard, Washington, D. C.; May, 1894, to command training-ship "Portsmouth;" January, 1895, transferred to training-ship "Alliance" October, 1895, detached, and to Bureau of Navigation; December, 1896, command of training-ship and station, Newport, R. I., to date (May, 1898).

James G. Green.—Entered the volunteer service as an Acting Ensign, and at the close of the Rebellion was transferred to the regular navy. Charles H. Rockwell.—Was born in Chatham, Massachusetts, April 29, 1840. He entered the naval service of the United States as an Acting Master, July 5, 1862; served on board the receiving-ship "North Carolina" for a few weeks, and was then ordered to the U. S. steamer "Penguin;" served as Executive Officer on the ship in the East Gulf Squadron until May 10, 1863, when he was ordered to the U. S. schooner "Wanderer;" on July 6, 1863, he was detached from the "Wanderer" and ordered to command the U. S. schooner "Two Sisters;" during the time that he held this command active and important services were performed on the west coast of Florida, calling forth a commendatory letter from the Commander-in-Chief, who recommended Mr. Rockwell for promotion; December 16, 1863, the Department promoted him to Acting Volunteer Lieutenant, "in consideration of good service;" on December 29, 1863, Lieutenant Rockwell was detached from the command of the "Two Sisters" and ordered to command the bark "Gem of the Sea;" on November 5, 1864, Mr. Rockwell was detached from the command of the "Gem of the Sea," and ordered to command the U. S. steamer "Hendrick Hudson;" while in command of this ship, and of the force blockading off St. Marks, Florida, he organized and directed an expedition against rebel salt works, dispersing the armed force at the entrance to the river, and destroying a large amount of property. This called forth another letter of commendation from the Commander-in-Chief. On February 22, 1865, an expedition under Brigadier-General John Newton was organized to operate in the vicinity of St. Mark's, and at the request of General Newton, Lieutenant Rockwell was assigned to duty with the expedition, and was appointed Naval Aide on the Staff of the Commanding-General, and placed in charge of the transportation of the troops. The forces landed at St. Mark's, and an engagement followed at Newport, and a bloody battle at a point known as Natural Bridge, eight miles below Tallahassee. In this expedition, Lieutenant Rockwell served constantly on the Staff of General Newton, receiving from him a letter of thanks for his services on the return of the expedition. Resuming command of the "Hendrick Hudson," he was on March 27, 1865, promoted to the grade of Acting Volunteer Lieutenant Commander. He remained in command of this ship until August 8, 1865, when he was detached and granted four months' leave of absence, and was honorably discharged from the naval service December 8, 1865. In November, 1866, Mr. Rockwell was examined for the regular service, and on the 19th of that month was re-appointed Acting Master in the Navy; he served on board the U. S. steamer "Osceola" in the West Indies until September, 1867; in October of that year he took passage in the U. S. S. "Idaho" to Brazil, and served on the flagship "Guerriere" until her return to the United States in July, 1869. On March 12, 1868, he was commissioned a Master in the regular service, and on December 18, of the same year, was promoted to Lieutenant. After a short service on the receiving-ship "Vandalia" at Portsmouth, New Hampshire, he was ordered to the U. S. S. "Palos," and proceeded in her to China, commanding her there until October, 1872, when he returned to the United States in the "Alaska." During the time Lieutenant Rockwell was in command of the "Palos" he participated in the actions with the Corean forts in the expedition under the command of Rear-Admiral John Rodgers. From March, 1873, until September, 1874, he was on duty at the Portsmouth Navy Yard; from the latter date until April, 1875, he served on the "Plymouth" and "Colorado," and on June 1, 1875, became Light-House Inspector of the Fourteenth Light-House District. On June 1, 1876, was ordered as Executive of the U. S. S. "Adams." On February 26, 1878, was promoted to Lieutenant-Commander; served at Torpedo School, and on May 1st joined U. S. S. "Jamestown," as Executive, and served in that ship in Alaska until September, 1881; was on duty at the Boston Navy Yard until October 1, 1882; 1883 was on the receiving-ship "Franklin," at Norfolk, Virginia; in September, 1884, took a large draft of men to the Isthmus for the Pacific Squadron; was again at the Torpedo School in 1885 and at the War College; from April, 1886, to October, 1888, served on the training-ship "Minnesota," at New York. October 31, 1888, was promoted to Commander, and February 20, 1889, took command of the U. S. S. "Yantic," until October, 1891; commanding receiving-ship "St. Louis," from October, 1891, to 1894; later commanded the receiving-ship "Richmond." From July 20, 1894, to date, Commandant of Naval Station, Port Royal, S. C.

Franklin Hanford.—Born in Chili, Monroe County, N. Y., November 8, 1844, and entered the U. S. Naval Academy, November 29, 1862, as a Midshipman. He was appointed to that institution from Scottsville, N. Y., in the Monroe County District, by the Hon. Alfred Ely, M. C. Mr. Ely had then only recently returned from Richmond, Va., where he had been imprisoned by the Confederates after his capture at the first battle of Bull Run. Commander Hanford graduated at the Naval Academy in June, 1866, and was then ordered to duty on the U. S. S. "Saco," cruising in the West Indies and Gulf of Mexico until the close of 1867. In January, 1868, he joined the "Kearsarge," proceeding in her to the South Pacific Station, where he was promoted to Ensign in April, 1868. In September, 1868, he was transferred to the "Tuscarora," and cruised on the latter vessel in the South Pacific and West India Stations until February, 1871, being promoted to Master in 1869, and to Lieutenant in 1870. In 1871 he was ordered to the "Wabash," flag-ship of the European Station, and served on that vessel until May, 1874. From July to November, 1874, he was on torpedo duty at Newport R. I., and then until May, 1875, on receiving-ship "Vermont," at New York, when he joined the "Tennessee," flag-ship of the Asiatic Station, and cruised in Asiatic waters on board the "Tennessee" and "Ashuelot" until the return of the former vessel to the United States in July, 1878. He then had ordnance duty at the New York Navy Yard until June, 1881, when he was attached to the flag-ship "Pensacola," on the Pacific Station, as navigator, until May, 1884. During the latter part of this cruise the "Pensacola" circumnavigated the globe, taking numerous observations for the determination of the variation of the compass. Ordnance duty at the Washington Navy Yard followed from 1884 to 1886; and from 1886 to 1888, he was Inspector of Ordnance at the West Point Foundry, Cold Spring, N. Y., where modern guns were built for the new vessels of the Navy. From 1888 to 1891 he was again attached to the "Pensacola," this time as executive officer, having been promoted to Lieutenant-Commander in October, 1885. During this cruise the "Pensacola" was, at first, on special duty in South America and on the Atlantic Coast of the United States; then conveyed a Scientific Expedition to West Africa during 1889-90, and was afterwards flag-ship of the South Atlantic and South Pacific Stations, visiting Chile at the opening of the rebellion of 1891. From 1892 to 1895, he was Senior Aid to the Commandant at the New York Navy Yard, being promoted to Commander in September, 1894. In June, 1895, he was ordered to command the U. S. S. "Alert" on the Pacific Station, and remained on her until August, 1897. During this cruise the "Alert" visited all the countries of the west coast of South America, from Callao, Peru, to Sitka, Alaska; protected American interests during revolutions in Ecuador and Nicaragua, and also spent several months in the Hawaiian Islands. After a few months' leave of absence, Commander Hanford was ordered, in January, 1898, as Assistant Inspector of the Tenth Light-House District, with headquarters at Buffalo, N. Y., and on the 12th of March, 1898, as Inspector of that district.

Station, June, 1891, to December, 1892; sick leave, December, 1892, to date of retirement, June 26, 1893.

William P. Randall.—Born in New Bedford, Massachusetts. In 1861 was about to sail in command of a whale-ship when the war commenced; was furnished with a certificate signed by the president of every insurance office in the city, to the effect that their offices would insure any vessel under his command at the lowest rates of insurance; without further endorsement was appointed an Acting Master in the U. S. Navy, July 24, 1861, and ordered to the U. S. S. "Cumberland," serving on that ship at the capture of Forts Clarke and Hatteras, and afterwards in the engagement with the "Merrimac" at Newport News, March 8, 1862, at which time he had command of the after-pivot gun (which was the last gun fired from that ship). May 28, 1872, promoted to the rank of Volunteer-Lieutenant, and ordered to the gunboat "Port Royal," Commander George W. Morris, which vessel did good service on the James River through the summer of 1862, and joined the Expedition in the fall of that year; January, 1863 (being at that time the Executive Officer), detached from the "Port Royal," and ordered to command the U. S. barque "Pursuit;" commanded this vessel until August 12, 1864, when he was detached and ordered to command U. S. barque "Restless;" these vessels were engaged in blockading the coast of Florida, and while commanded by Lieutenant Randall did much injury to the enemy, for which he received two complimentary letters from the Admiral commanding (Admiral Stribling), with orders to read them on the quarter-deck at muster; February 23, 1865, took temporary command of the U. S. steamer "Hendrick Hudson" ("Restless" undergoing repairs at Key West), and went to St. Mark's for General Newton, U. S. Army, and staff, March 9, 1865. Promoted to the rank of Volunteer Lieutenant-Commander, March 17, 1865; detached from U. S. barque "Reckless," and ordered to take the prize steamer "Ruby" to New York; arrived in New York with the "Ruby," April 14, 1865, and waited orders until August 17, 1865, when he was granted four months' leave of absence; on December 19, 1865, was honorably discharged from U. S. Navy with the rank of Lieutenant-Commander. October 30, 1866, presented himself to the Examining Board at Hartford, Connecticut, for admission to the regular service, and was rejected on account of injuries received in the line of duty during the engagement between the "Cumberland" and "Merrimac," but obtaining permission from Washington for examination, he presented himself the second time, November 22, 1866, and on December 7, 1866, received an appointment as Acting Master on temporary service, and was ordered to the U. S. steamer "Peoria," which vessel went to the West Indies and returned with yellow fever on board; detached from her in Norfolk, Virginia, and went to the hospital, July 29, 1867; was on sick-leave until September, 1867, when he was ordered to the U. S. receiving-ship "Ohio," March 12, 1868 (three years and three days after receiving his appointment as a Volunteer Lieutenant-Commander); he received a commission as Ensign in the regular navy, October 12, 1868; detached from the "Ohio" and ordered to command the U. S. steamer "Leyden," December 18, 1868. Promoted to Master, January 27, 1869, and detached from the "Leyden" and ordered to the U. S. steamer "Narraganset;" joined the "Narraganset" in Havana, March 17, 1869; in July the "Narraganset," went in quarantine at Portsmouth, New Hampshire, with yellow fever on board, when he was detached and ordered to the Boston Navy Yard; September 1, 1869, ordered to command the U. S. steamer "Palos;" in October, 1869, was detached from the "Palos," and took command of the U. S. steamer "Leyden." Commissioned as Lieutenant, March 21, 1870; May 18, 1870, detached from the "Leyden" and ordered to the monitor "Saugus;" joined the "Saugus" at Havana, June 4, 1870; September 30, 1870, detached from the "Saugus" and ordered to command the U. S. steamer "Mayflower;" detached from the "Mayflower," November 3, 1870, and ordered to the U. S. receiving-ship "Ohio," Navy Yard, Boston; May 5, 1871, temporarily detached from the "Ohio" and ordered to Key West, Florida, as Executive Officer, to assist in bringing the "Saugus" to Philadelphia; June 22, 1871, returned to the "Ohio;" September 15, detached from the "Ohio" and ordered to the U. S. steamer "Iroquois;" January 15, 1872, detached from the "Iroquois" and ordered to the U. S. steamer "Canandaigua;" August 4, 1874, detached from the "Canandaigua" at Key West, and sent home by medical survey (with Chagres fever) on sick-leave; November, 1874, ordered to the Ordnance Department, Navy Yard, Boston; June 10, 1875, ordered to Torpedo Station, Newport, Rhode Island; October 10, 1875, detached from Torpedo Station and ordered to the U. S. receiving-ship "Ohio," Navy Yard, Boston; October 28, "Ohio's" crew all transferred to the receiving-ship "Wabash;" April 16, 1877, granted six months' leave of absence; October 15, 1877, ordered back to the U. S. receiving-ship "Wabash;" "Ranger," Asiatic Station, 1878-81; special duty, 1881-2. Promoted to Lieutenant-Commander in 1886. Retired, February 15, 1882.

R. M. G. Brown.—Born in Western Virginia. Appointed from that section by his uncle, Hon. William G. Brown; entered Naval School at Newport, July, 1864; graduated, June, 1868, number three in a class of eighty; served as Midshipman on North Pacific Station, on board of "Saranac," "Lackawanna," and "Pensacola." Promoted to Ensign, 1869; to Master, 1870; sailed from New York, on the "Alaska," in April, 1870, for China; made a three years' cruise in that vessel; took part in the Korean Expedition; commanding the sailors landed as infantry from that ship; was in the final charge at Fort McKee, and was mentioned in the official report of that action as among those first in the fort; ordered as Second Lieutenant, to the "New Hampshire," at Norfolk, in October, 1873. Commissioned as Lieutenant, April 13, 1872; served there until June, 1874, when he was ordered to Torpedo School at Newport; in October of same year was ordered as First Lieutenant of the "Despatch;" ordered to "Swatara," June, 1875; served on the West India Station until March, 1877, when he was ordered to the Naval Academy as Instructor of Navigation and Surveying; ordered to command the torpedo-ram "Alarm," June 11, 1878; $20,000 having been appropriated to fit the Mallory propeller to this vessel, was ordered to carry on an extensive series of experiments to fully test its value; having completed this experimental duty in a manner highly satisfactory to the Navy Department, he was ordered to the flag-ship "Lancaster," in August, 1881, and served on the European Station until the following June, when he was severely wounded in the line of duty; when convalescent he was invalided home, and again put on special duty. May, 1884, was ordered to the "Lackawanna," on South Pacific Station. It was shortly after this, that Lieutenant Brown made his well-known report on the Panama Canal; all previous reports had been favorable to the scheme, but none were after. While on the Isthmus he contracted Chagres fever and had to return home in 1885; served at Navy Yard, Norfolk, as Navigation-Officer, until May, 1889. In October of 1887 he was ordered as Navigating-Officer of the flag-ship "Trenton," bound for the Pacific. He was specially commended to the Navy Department by the senior officer for the manner in which he navigated the "Trenton" through the Straits of Magellan and Smyth's Sound. During the memorable gale at Samoa, Lieutenant Brown maintained his reputation in a remarkable degree. Captain Farquhar, of the "Trenton," in his report of the hurricane, which report was approved and forwarded by Rear-Admiral Kimberly, says, "Lieutenant R. M. G. Brown, the navigator, was by my side the whole time, and to his excellent judgment, one time at least, the ship was cleared of a reef. Had we struck it I fear few of the four hundred and fifty people on board of the 'Trenton' would be alive to-day." In a letter to Rear-Admiral Kimberly, dated April 27, 1889, the Secretary of the Navy says, "The flag-ship, now without steam or rudder, her anchors dragging, drifted almost at the mercy of the gale along the edges of the eastern reef. At times not more than twenty feet from total destruction. Every endeavor was made to control her movements, and her commanding officer states in his report that upon at least one occasion it was through the excellent judgment of Lieutenant R. M. G. Brown, the Navigating-Officer, that the ship cleared reef and the four hundred and fifty lives on board were saved." It was while handling the ship on this occasion that Navigating-Officer Brown put the ship's company in the rigging, thus making a living sail, which was as effective as it was unprecedented. October 1, 1889, Lieutenant Brown was ordered to duty in the office of the Judge-Advocate-General of the army.

Theodorus Bailey Myers Mason.—Born in New York City, May 8, 1848. Appointed Midshipman from Florida to United States Naval Academy at Newport, Rhode Island, September 20, 1864; served on board practice-ships "Macedonian," "Savannah," and "Dale;" graduated number 21, June 6, 1868; ordered to flag-ship "Guerriere," South Atlantic Station, September 3, 1868; received letter of thanks from the Secretary of the Navy, gold medal of New York Benevolent and Live-Saving Institution, and decoration of the Order of the Rose from the Emperor of Brazil for saving two of the ship's crew in the harbor of Rio Janeiro; detached from steamer "Guerriere" at New York, July 21, 1869. Spencer Shepard Wood.—Born in Brooklyn, New York, on August 7, 1861, but his parents soon removed to New York City, where he spent the first eleven years of his life; then he accompanied his grandparents to Flushing, N. Y., where he attended school at the Flushing Institute. In June, 1877, he applied to enter a competitive examination for appointment to West Point, but was informed that he was too young; the following year, however, he was admitted to a competitive examination and was the successful candidate for appointment to the vacancy from the First Congressional District of New York at the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.; Hon. J. W. Covert gave him the appointment, and he successfully passed the entrance examination and became a Cadet Midshipman in June, 1878. He was graduated No. 3 in his class after the course of four years at the Naval Academy, and went directly from the Academy to the "Vandalia," then lying at Hampton Roads, Va.; serving on board this vessel for about a year, he was then transferred to the "Tennessee," for duty as an Aide on the staff of Rear-Admiral G. H. Cooper, U. S. N.; while on this duty he accompanied the Admiral to Caracas, Venezuela, on the occasion of the unveiling of the statute of General Washington, in one of the plazas of that city. In May, 1884, Cadet Wood passed his examination at Annapolis, Md., for final graduation, remaining No. 2 in his class, and in July of that year he received his commission as an Ensign, and was ordered to duty at the Naval Experimental Battery at Annapolis, Md., in connection with the development of the new guns and powders for the Navy. In May of the following year, he reported on board of the "Iroquois," at Panama, United States of Colombia, and cruised on the west coast of South America until the fall of 1887, when the "Iroquois" proceeded to San Francisco, Cal., and was put out of commission, early in 1888. Ensign Wood then joined the Coast Survey steamer "Patterson," and performed survey work in Southeastern Alaska until October, 1888; during this season he took part in the survey of the Portland Canal. In November, 1888, he was one of a party of four officers ordered to Mexico and Central America for astronomical observations for the determination of the longitudes of Coatzacoalco, Salina Cruz, La Libertad and San Juan Del Sur. These observations being completed, the party returned to Washington for the computation of the data obtained. In September, 1889, Ensign Wood applied for sea duty, and was ordered to the Asiatic Squadron; there he served on the "Omaha," "Monocacy," and on the "Palos," as Executive Officer and Navigator, spending one winter at Tientzin, China, when he had opportunity to visit Peking and the Great Wall of China. The last year of his cruise he served on the staff of Rear-Admiral G. E. Belknap, U. S. N., as Flag Lieutenant, and accompanied the Admiral home, early in 1892. For about two months Ensign Wood awaited orders at his home in Flushing, N. Y. and then reported for duty in the office of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy. In March, 1893, he was appointed Naval Aide to the Secretary of the Navy, and performed this duty for over a year. During this period he had charge of many of the details connected with the invited guests at the Naval Review in New York, accompanying the Secretary on the "Dolphin" to the Naval Review, and was the officer designated to meet the President at Jersey City to accompany him to his hotel, and the following day to accompany him to and from the "Dolphin" for the Review. At Ensign Wood's request he was relieved from duty as Naval Aide to permit him to accompany Admiral Walker, U. S. N., as his Flag Secretary to Honolulu when he took command of the Pacific Station in the spring of 1894. In April of this year he received his commission as a Lieutenant (junior grade). He served on board the "Philadelphia" in Honolulu, was present at the first meeting of the Constitutional Convention, and on July 4, 1894, was present when that Constitution was proclaimed to be the law of the land. Lieutenant Wood returned to the United States with Admiral Walker, in September, 1894, and was then ordered as Flag Secretary to Rear-Admiral R. W. Meade, U. S. N. He served on board the "New York," with Admiral Meade until the Admiral retired from active service, when he joined the "Vermont" at the New York Navy Yard. In June of this year he married Miss Mary Margaretta Fryer, of New York. In September, he took the course in Torpedo Instruction at the Torpedo Station at Newport, and in October was ordered to Bristol, R. I., as Assistant Inspector of Torpedo Boats, Nos. 6 and 7, (the "Porter" and "Dupont") to be built by the Herreshoff Manufacturing Company at that place. He was present during the entire construction of these boats and on all of their trials. Upon the detachment of Commander Converse, U. S. N., the General Inspector, from the duty in charge of the Torpedo Station, Lieutenant Wood remained in charge of the work on No. 7, and in September, 1897, was ordered to assume command of the "Dupont" at Newport, R. I. In this month he received his commission as a Lieutenant. Since taking command of the "Dupont," this boat has visited most of the ports from Newport to Mobile, where she is now lying (March, 1898).

General Order, No. 38. { Flagship "Brooklyn," Yokohama, Japan, July 7, 1888.

The Commander-in-Chief desires to express his appreciation of the commendable conduct of the body of blue jackets and marines of the U. S. steamer "Essex," Commander Theo. F. Jewell, commanding, in their forced march of thirty miles in twelve hours on June 19, 1888, under the immediate command of Lieutenant C. D. Galloway, U. S. N., First Lieutenant R. D. Wainwright, U. S. M. C., and Ensign W. B. Hoggatt, U. S. N., from Chemulpo to Seoul, Corea, over a rough road, half of the march being made in the darkness of the night. The celerity of movement, combined with the steadiness of the men while employed on shore, reflects great credit upon the discipline and efficiency of the "Essex," as well as upon the U. S. Navy in general. This order will be read on board all vessels of the Squadron at the first general muster after its receipt.

WITH RELATIVE RANK OF CAPTAIN.

Phineas J. Horwitz.—Born at Baltimore, Md., March 3, 1822; graduated as doctor at the University of Maryland, March, 1845. Appointed an Assistant Surgeon in the Navy, November 8, 1847, and immediately thereafter assigned to duty in the Gulf Squadron, then operating against Mexico. Dr. Horwitz was at once placed in charge of the Naval Hospital at Tabasco, and remained there until the close of the war. This duty was performed so efficiently and energetically as to receive the personal commendation and thanks of the commander-in-chief of squadron, Commodore M. C. Perry. He was next detailed for the frigate "Constitution," bound for the Mediterranean Station; at the termination of the cruise was ordered to the "Relief," destined for Brazil; he was examined and passed for promotion, January, 1853; he was then assigned to the steamer "Princeton," aboard which vessel he served some two years; after this he was ordered to the "Supply," belonging to the African and Brazilian Stations; on reaching the United States, in 1859, he was offered the position of assistant to the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, which office he held until appointed Chief of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, July 1, 1865, a position which he held until his term of service expired, July 1, 1869; on the nineteenth of April, 1861, Dr. Horwitz was promoted to the grade of Surgeon, but his services in the bureau were considered so important that he was not permitted to vacate his appointment as assistant, and Congress, in acknowledgment of the immense amount of work he was performing, voted to give him the highest shore-pay of his grade; during the entire period of the war of the Rebellion the labor of the bureau fell almost wholly upon the shoulders of Dr. Horwitz, and his was the only bureau in which the clerical force was not increased. The whole system of tabulating the casualties of the war, of indexing the books of reference, reports of survey, certificates of disability and of diseases, was designed and carried forward by Dr. Horwitz, so that there was probably no case of injury, disease or disability that occurred during the doctor's connection with the bureau that will not be found in its appropriate place in the Surgeon-General's office; the immense number of pension cases accruing during the war were all examined, adjusted and prepared by the doctor, and every official letter that left the bureau was written by him. All this was done without the aid of a single additional writer or clerk. On leaving the bureau in 1869, Dr. Horwitz was placed in charge of the Naval Hospital, Philadelphia, since which time he has been assigned to various duties on that station. He was promoted to the grade of Medical Inspector, March 3, 1871, and to the grade of Medical Director, December 19, 1873; Naval Asylum, Philadelphia, 1877-83; President of Examining Board, Philadelphia, 1883-4. Delavan Bloodgood.—Born in New York State. Commissioned Assistant Surgeon, March 13, 1857. Promoted to Passed Assistant Surgeon, December 24, 1861; to Surgeon, January 24, 1862; to Medical Inspector, February 3, 1875; to Medical Director, August 22, 1884; retired on 20th of August, 1893, in compliance with the statutory law. His first cruise was aboard the flag-ship, "Merrimac," on the Pacific Station, 1857-60; his next aboard the steamer "Mohawk," 1860-1, about Cuba and adjacent islands, for the suppression of the slave trade. Several vessels with their cargoes of slaves from the coast of Africa were captured. In anticipation of the great impending conflict the "Mohawk" played an essential role in the strategic movements which saved the "Keys of the Gulf," in which he was engaged, from seizure by the secessionists. The next succeeding affairs were the evacuation of the Pensacola Navy Yard, the conveying from Texas of the troops surrendered by Twiggs, and the establishment off Santa Rosa Island of the first blockade of the war. After passing the summer of 1861 in the Gulf, Assistant Surgeon Bloodgood was ordered North for examination preliminary to promotion, and arriving off Port Royal at the time of that battle was diverted to another transport and put in charge of a lot of the wounded and sick for conveyance to hospital. After promotion he was detailed to the sloop-of-war "Dacotah," on which he served till near the close of the war; participating in the various operations about Hampton Roads, from the first appearance of the rebel ram "Merrimac," till its felo-de-se; up the rivers in conjunction with the first Peninsular campaign; for awhile with Farragut, in the Mississippi; then in the Flying Squadron; but the most of the work was in blockading off the Carolinas, and in minor engagements with shore batteries. During this service the "Dacotah" was visited by an epidemic of yellow fever and by another of small-pox. En route homeward after this cruise Surgeon Bloodgood was captured by railroad raiders in Maryland, but effected his escape, sine impedimenta, from the cavalcade of prisoners bound to Libby. In the two years succeeding the war Surgeon Bloodgood made the lake cruise aboard the steamer "Michigan," and next was attached to the receiving-ship "Vermont," until the breaking out of yellow fever aboard the "Jamestown," when he was ordered in mid-winter from New York to that infected ship in the tropics, aboard which the mortality proved phenomenal, and he was one of the few who survived an attack of the pestilence. From Panama Bay (for disinfection) the "Jamestown," sailed to Sitka, and there participated in the ceremonies of the transfer of Alaska from Russia to the United States. The winter of 1867-8 was passed in Alaska, and in the spring following the "Jamestown," was put out of commission at Mare Island Navy Yard, and Dr. Bloodgood transferred to the "Lackawanna" on the Mexican coast, there completed his second Pacific cruise. He was next on shore duty at New York, until May, 1872, when he joined the "Plymouth" on the European Station; but after a few months again took passage and proceeded by the India route to the Asiatic Station, where as Fleet-Surgeon he served, successively, aboard the flag-ships "Colorado," "Lackawanna" and "Hartford." At the end of two years he exchanged to the Pacific Station as Fleet-Surgeon; but soon afterwards was ordered home; and so as a passenger, and on duty, accomplished the circuit of the globe. After a tour of shore duty in New York his next and last service afloat was as Fleet-Surgeon on the European Station, aboard the flag-ship "Trenton," 1877-9. Returned from the Mediterranean, he was placed in charge, first of the Naval Hospital, in Brooklyn, and next of the Laboratory; these duties continued till the autumn of 1886, when he was sent in charge of the Naval Hospital at Norfolk; but on the 1st of July following, he was recalled to the directorship of the Naval Laboratory, which position, together with that of Head of the Department of Instruction (when that establishment was instituted and joined to the Laboratory), he retained until his retirement. Dr. Bloodgood's home is in the Borough of Brooklyn, with a summer residence on an island in Lake George. He is an alumnus of Colgate University, at Hamilton, N. Y., and of Jefferson Medical College, in Philadelphia. He is a member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion; of the Holland Society; of the Society of Colonial Wars; of the St. Nicholas Society of Nassau Island; and of the University, and the Yacht, and the St. Nicholas Clubs of New York, and of the Oxford Club of Brooklyn.

Retired, September 20, 1891, with relative rank of Captain.

Alexander W. Russell.—Born in Maryland. Served in the sloop-of-war "Saratoga," coast of Africa, 1842-4, as Captain's Clerk, and in the operations against Bereby and the adjacent towns on that station, under Commodore M. C. Perry, December, 1843; also served in Company C (Captain Samuel H. Walker, Texas Ranger), Mounted Rifle Regiment, in the Mexican War; was Clerk to the Committee of Naval Affairs, United States Senate, 1858-61. Nominated Paymaster in the navy from the District of Columbia on the 14th and confirmed 28th February, 1861; attached to steamer "Pocohontas," Potomac River and Chesapeake Bay, April and May, 1861; to sloop "Savannah," N. and S. A. Blockading Squadron, and in Savannah River at capture of Tybee Island, in command of the powder division; April 1, to steam-frigate "Colorado," capture of the forts in the Mississippi River and New Orleans; to the iron-clad steamer "New Ironsides," special service, 1862; South Atlantic Squadron, 1863-4, when he was specially thanked by Commodore (Vice-Admiral) Rowan, commanding the "New Ironsides," in his official dispatches, "for great zeal and ability in command of the powder and shell division" during the various (27) engagements with the forts and batteries of Charleston harbor, in which, as Rear-Admiral Belknap, recently writes to Pay Director Russell: "Do you know that you supplied to the guns of the 'Ironsides,' in face of the enemy, 4,439 charges of powder, together with a like number of shells? That the aggregate weight of the shells was 258½ tons? The Cramps might build and equip a gun-boat with that amount of iron." To the receiving-ship "North Carolina," New York, 1864-5; suggested, and under the orders of Admiral Paulding and Captain McKinstry, inaugurated the lasting reform of issuing to all recruits their needed outfit of clothing and small stores, and furnishing each with an itemized bill of the cost of the same at the government rates, instead of the scant and ununiform supplies furnished them by the shipper, at the most exorbitant cost; to steamer "Chattanooga," special service, 1866; to steam-sloop "Sacramento," special service, 1866-7, till wrecked in the Bay of Bengal, coast of India; when it was found that the "Sacramento" was hard and fast and sinking gradually, with the seas breaking over her starboard quarter, two rafts were ordered to be constructed, as it was found that boats could not live amid the breakers. On the smaller of them, on which the Paymaster was ordered to go to procure relief, he had secured his most important books and vouchers carefully packed in a tarpaulin bag, and then inserted in another to protect it as much as possible from water. The Paymaster then, on his own motion, provided each of the officers, petty officers and leading men of the crew with a liberal amount of money in the event of their being separated after escaping from the wreck. The raft was then launched under the lee bow, and he with others boarded and lashed themselves with ropes to the logs composing it, when Lieutenant Frederick Rodgers, in the whale boat, took it in tow, and after hours of hard and skillful towing, with each sea breaking over the raft, succeeded in getting it safely through the breakers and surf to the shore. After spreading his books in the sun to dry, the Paymaster, taking with him a fireman and marine, started on foot for relief—their clothing drying upon their bodies. At the end of some four miles the Paymaster fell from sun stroke, but after free applications of water, revived sufficiently to enable him, with the aid of his two men, to reach a small village a mile further on. Then, after a brief rest and drinking freely of boiled goat's milk, the only food obtainable, he hired a large canoe, two leading natives and four others to pole, row and sail the canoe (none speaking English); started on one of the branches of the Godavery River, for the town of Coringa, arriving there after midnight, engaged three large wrecking boats and sent them to the ship. Then proceeding to Cocanada, the headquarters of the English officials, chartered a small steamer under Captain Thompson, in the customs service; proceeded at once to the wreck, leaving orders at Cocanada for ample provision to be made for quartering and subsisting the officers and crew. Reaching the scene of the wreck and finding, the sea having abated, that the officers and crew had gone to Yanaon (French), he followed them—aroused them after midnight and conducted them to Cocanada, where they found everything provided as ordered. The safe with some $30,000 was saved, and the accounts settled without the loss of a cent to either the Paymaster or the government. Inspector Provisions and Clothing, Navy Yard, Washington, 1868-70; Navy Pay-Office, Philadelphia, 1870-3. Promoted to Pay Inspector, March 3, 1871; Inspector Provisions and Clothing, Navy Yard, Philadelphia, October, 1873, to January 15, 1874; Navy Pay-Office, Philadelphia, 1874; promoted to Pay-Director, February 23, 1877; Navy Pay-Office, Baltimore, March, 1877, to January, 1882; Navy Pay-Office, Philadelphia, May, 1882, to February, 1886; retired February 4, 1886.

Promoted to Pay-Director, December 6, 1880; Navy Pay-Office, San Francisco, Cal., 1881-4; special duty, 1885; Navy Pay-Office, Norfolk, Va., 1886-9; Navy Pay-Office, Boston, Mass., December, 1889, to June, 1890; General Storekeeper, Naval Academy, June, 1890, to December, 1893; settling accounts, December 1, 1893; General Inspector Pay Corps, July 31, 1894, to September, 1897. Retired, September, 1897.

Arthur J. Pritchard.—Entered the U. S. Navy, October 7, 1861, as an Assistant Paymaster, regular service; sailed from Philadelphia in December, 1861, in the gunboat "Itasca," commanded by C. H. B. Caldwell, and joined the East Gulf Blockading Squadron, at that time under the command of Flag-Officer McKean, but who was soon afterwards relieved by Rear-Admiral Farragut; was attached to the "Itasca" for two years, during which time that vessel was engaged in all the fights on the Mississippi River, prominent among which were those at Forts Jackson and St. Philip, Vicksburg, Grand Gulf, Manshac Bend, etc., etc.; previous to the first-named engagement, the "Itasca" succeeded in cutting the chain extending across the river, by means of a number of small vessels, for the purpose of obstructing and preventing the passage of the Federal fleet on its way to the city of New Orleans; was wounded in the fall of 1862, and sent to a hospital in New Orleans, where remained for about two months, but so serious was the injury, and so tardy the recovery, that he was sent North for treatment, and was altogether incapacitated from duty for seven months; at the expiration of that time, rejoined vessel, and remained with her until her return North for repairs, in September, 1863, when was detached and ordered at once to the U. S. steamer "Wyalusing;" the "Wyalusing" proceeded to the Sounds of North Carolina, for the purpose of attempting to capture or destroy the Confederate ram "Albemarle," but engaging that vessel, after a few hours' hot fighting, the ram retreated up the Roanoke River, where she remained until destroyed by Lieutenant Cushing; the "Wyalusing" afterwards assisted at the capture of Plymouth in 1864; in this same year was promoted to the full rank of Paymaster; in the summer of 1865 was detached, and after settling accounts, was ordered to the U. S. steamer "Ticonderoga," Captain Charles Steadman, and sailed the following autumn from Philadelphia, to join the European Squadron ; stopping for a few days at the Azores, the vessel arrived at Lisbon in December, and during forty months that she remained on the station, visited almost every sea-port town from Cronstadt, Russia, which place she visited with Admiral Farragut, to St. Paul de Loando, on the coast of Africa, including all the Mediterranean Ports, not excepting Constantinople ; in the autumn of 1869 joined the U. S. steamer "Benicia," Captain S. Nicholson, and sailing from Portsmouth, New Hampshire, bound for China, touched at Rio de Janeiro, the Cape of Good Hope, Anger Point, in Java, and Singapore, arriving at Hong Kong, China, in July or August of 1870 ; after visiting several Chinese and Japanese ports, arrived at Yokohama, Japan, in 1871 ; there his health became so much impaired, that he was sent home, by recommendation of a medical board of survey ; after recovering his health in 1872, joined the U. S. steamer "Saranac," Captain Thomas S. Phelps, at Panama, which vessel, soon after he joined her, became the flag-ship of Rear-Admiral A. M. Pennock, commanding the North Pacific Squadron ; in her visited all the sea-ports from Panama northward to Sitka, Alaska Territory, the beautiful sheet of water, Puget's Sound, and the Sandwich Islands ; after leaving the "Saranac," and settling accounts, was ordered, January, 1875, to the U. S. steamer "Powhatan," Captain James E. Jouett, and sailed that same month for Europe, having on board Rear-Admiral John L. Worden, the relief of Rear-Admiral Case, then commanding the European Squadron, the latter officer returning to the United States in the "Powhatan," which touched at the West India Islands on her homeward voyage ; was detached from the "Powhatan," July 26, 1877, and joined the U. S. training-ship "Minnesota," at New York, January 28, 1878 ; was detached, February 1, 1881 ; was ordered to the Navy Pay-Office, Baltimore, Md., January 4, 1882 ; was promoted to Pay Inspector, December 24, 1883 ; was detached from the Pay-Office, February 2, 1885, and joined the U. S. steamer "Pensacola ;" became flag-ship of the European Squadron, Rear-Admiral S. R. Franklin, commanding ; the "Pensacola" arrived at home from Europe in February, 1888, and the following month was detached ; in April, 1889, was ordered to the Baltimore Pay-Office, and remained until April, 1893 ; Navy Pay-Office, Norfolk, Va., April, 1893-6 ; Navy Pay-Office, Baltimore, June, 1896. Retired, February, 1898.

Luther G. Billings.—Born in New York. Appointed from New York, October 24, 1862 ; entered the service as Acting Assistant Paymaster ; attached to steamer "Water-Witch," South Atlantic Blockading Squadron, 1862-4 ; while attached to the "Water-Witch," took part in a number of minor engagements and expeditions, the most important of which were St. John's Bluff, Florida ; Charleston, Pocatigo, North Edisto and Georgetown, South Carolina ; and Ossabaw Sound, Georgia ; on June 4, 1864, the "Water-Witch" was attacked, while at anchor in Ossabaw Sound, by a large boarding party of rebels, and after a desperate hand-to-hand conflict was captured ; Paymaster Billings took an active part in this engagement, being the first man on deck, killed the commanding officer of the Confederates, and several men in hand-to-hand conflict ; saved the life of his commanding officer by killing the man who had cut him down, and while in the act of despatching him, received a severe wound which disabled him. The Confederates suffered a loss of eight killed, twenty-two wounded, and four missing ; was taken to the U. S. Naval Hospital, Savannah, the same day, remaining under treatment until June 12, when, having incurred the displeasure of Commodore Hunter, was sent to prison camp Oglethorpe, Macon, Georgia, before his wounds had healed. On July 20, in company with fifteen hundred officers, was removed to Charleston, South Carolina ; shortly after crossed the North Edisto River with four comrades, jumping from the train while in rapid motion, and, aided by the darkness, succeeded in reaching the woods; after almost unendurable suffering from fatigue and hunger, and after escaping the bloodhounds by crossing a large marsh, was recaptured on July 25, when about four miles from the sea-coast, by a detachment of the Second South Carolina Cavalry, aided by a pack of thirty-four bloodhounds; only escaped being torn to pieces by the proximity of the troopers; was then taken to Charleston, where he arrived on July 27; on September 1 all the naval officers and men were started for Richmond, Virginia, arriving at Libby Prison on the 5th, having had but one ration served out to them while in transition, which caused the death of a number of prisoners from starvation, among whom were four of the "Water-Witch." Paymaster Billings received commendatory letters from Rear-Admiral H. Paulding and Commander Austin Pendergrast for his meritorious conduct during the defence of the "Water-Witch;" steamer "Connecticut," special cruise, 1864-5; visited all the forts in the West Indies and Laguayra, Carthagena, Cumana, and Aspinwall on the mainland. Appointed Assistant-Paymaster, March 3, 1865; steamer "Waterree," South Pacific Squadron, 1866-8; witnessed the bombardment of Callao by the Spanish fleet, and visited all the ports of the South Pacific Squadron, until August 14, 1868, when the cruise was brought to a sudden end by the terrible earthquake at Arica, Peru, which left the ship some five hundred yards inland, utterly destroyed the town and the remaining ships in the harbor, and caused immense loss of life; Paymaster Billings received a commendatory letter from Commander Gillis for his cool and courageous bearing during the trying circumstances in which the officers of that vessel were placed. Commissioned as Paymaster, U. S. Navy, May 4, 1866; receiving-ship "Norfolk," Virginia, 1869-72; S. S. "Powhatan," North Atlantic Station, 1872-5; Navy Yard, New York, 1876-8; receiving-ship "Colorado," 1878; special duty, New York, 1879; Naval Academy, 1880; "Constellation," 1881; Naval Academy, 1881; "Constellation," 1882; Naval Academy, 1882-3; practice-ship "Constellation," 1883; Naval Academy, 1883-4; special duty, Chester, Pennsylvania, 1885-6; Bureau of Provisions and Clothing, 1887; "Pensacola," 1889-90; Fleet Paymaster, N. A. Station, July, 1890, to December, 1892; Navy Pay Office, New York, January, 1893, to 1897; General Inspector, Pay Corps, September, 1897. Retired, March, 1898.

John H. Stevenson.—Appointed Acting Assistant Paymaster, September 19, 1862; attached to the U. S. S. "Satellite," 1862-3, and was in the first battle of Fredericksburg (on land), with Hooker's division.

In December, 1862, it was observed, from the deck of the "Satellite," that the enemy was making signals across the Rappahannock. The commanding officer of the "Satellite" was about to shell the party, but refrained from doing so at the earnest solicitation of Paymaster Stevenson, who stated he would capture the whole party, apparatus, etc., on the succeeding night, which was done as follows: Two boats' crews left the vessel under command of Paymaster Stevenson, went ashore, captured the party, and broke up the station. While ashore, Paymaster Stevenson ascertained that Captain Charles Lawson, of the 55th Virginia rebel Cavalry, had opened a recruiting station about ten or twelve miles back from the river. The party, after anchoring the boats a short distance from shore, and leaving two boat keepers in each, started for the recruiting station. The enemy had cavalry pickets out, but the party got safely through, broke up the station, captured Captain Lawson, and brought him safely on board the U. S. S. "Satellite," from whence he was sent to the old Capitol Prison at Washington.

The commanding officer of the "Satellite" states as follows: "To the bravery and energy of Acting Assistant Paymaster Stevenson the success of the expedition was due. Mr. Stevenson frequently volunteered his services for other hazardous duty, and always performed it to my entire satisfaction."

On the night of July 9, 1863, the U. S. S. "New London" was sent down the river by Captain Woolsey, U. S. N., senior officer present, with important dispatches for Admiral Farragut, at New Orleans, and orders to force her way through, if possible. In regard to this case, Captain Woolsey states as follows: "On the morning of the 10th July, 1863, I received a message that the U. S. S. 'New London' which had been sent down the river during the night, with important dispatches for Admiral Farragut, was aground near College Point, some twelve miles below; that she was disabled, and under the enemy's fire, and her officers and crew behind the levee. I sent to the telegraph station, but found that the wires had been cut; then, before going down to the assistance of the 'New London' I landed Acting Assistant Paymaster Stevenson, with orders to go down behind the levee to the 'New London,' get the dispatches from Lieutenant-Commander Perkins, fasten a bit of lead around them, and, if possible, to proceed down to New Orleans with them, to seize horses as he wanted them, and to dash through the enemy's pickets and suspicious places with all speed; but, if surrounded by the enemy, to pitch the dispatches into the river.

"The cheerfulness with which Mr. Stevenson volunteered to perform this hazardous duty, and the energetic and successful manner in which he performed it, would certainly have been noticed by the Government had my report, in which the circumstances were stated, been received. The distance performed by Acting Assistant Paymaster Stevenson was eighty-five miles, and through the enemy's country."

Admiral D. G. Farragut, U. S. N., also testifies as follows: "I distinctly remember that this officer was very active and energetic in conveying dispatches on the Mississippi River in 1863, and I therefore cheerfully endorse his conduct during that period, as set forth by his commanding officer, and consider him well entitled to Government recognition."

Admiral David D. Porter testifies: "General Sherman had not heard of the capture of Fort Fisher, and I supposed he might march down on Fort Fisher and leave the main road, when he ought to connect with General Grant's army. I called for volunteers to carry dispatches through the enemy's country. Mr. Stevenson volunteered, and carried the dispatches safely to General Sherman, through the enemy's country, at the risk of his neck; for, had they caught him, they would have hung him."

He was, also, in all the battles and skirmishes on the Potomac and Rappahannock Rivers, from November, 1862, to April, 1863; on the Mississippi River, from June, 1863, to September, 1863; all the fights on the James River during the last year of the war, and at the capture of Petersburg and Richmond.

In June, 1870, the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, advanced Paymaster John H. Stevenson fifteen numbers in his grade, for "extraordinary heroism."

Not deeming him sufficiently rewarded for all his services, the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, on April 30, 1879, again advanced Paymaster John H. Stevenson fifteen numbers in his grade, for "gallant and conspicuous conduct in battle, and extraordinary heroism."

Paymaster Stevenson served on the "Pawnee," South Atlantic Squadron, 1866-9. He was commissioned as Paymaster in 1869; receiving-ship "Vermont," 1869-72; "Lackawanna," Pacific Fleet, 1872-5; special duty at the Centennial Exhibition, 1876; in charge of stores, Nagasaki, Japan, 1876-7; Navy Yard, New York, 1877-80. Pay-Inspector, January 18, 1881; Navy Yard, New York, 1883-7; Naval Academy, 1889-90. Retired, September 25, 1893.

Robert Burton Rodney, U. S. N.; of Delaware. At nearly 22, appointed Acting Assistant Paymaster, United States Navy, October 25, 1862; was Paymaster of ordnance-ship "Dale," Key West, 1862-3; blockader "J. S. Chambers," 1863-4; "Donegal" and "Massachusetts," 1864-5; double-ender "Conemaugh," 1865-6; training-frigates "Constitution" and "Santee," Annapolis, 1867; store-ship "Cyane," Panama Bay, 1868-9; iron-clad "Terror," Cuban waters, 1870-1. Placed on retired list, 1871. His life, during the War, was one of patient, humble suffering. In August and September, 1864, was on the aforesaid blockader while that gunboat was stricken by the yellow fever with greater virulence and rate of mortality than ever were known elsewhere in the Navy. Moored alone off Indian River Inlet, Fla., almost all of the ship's complement of seventy lay ill simultaneously; and the deaths were about one-fourth of the crew and one-half of the officers, and including the commander. The only medical officer, from severity of strain upon him, became helpless, and had to be kept under close care. The vessel resounded night and day with the delirious shrieks of the sick and dying; and an officer, although well, was so distracted by the incessant horrors that he sprang overboard and was drowned. All the burials, except the first, were in the sea. Rodney, in addition to personally-performed duties in charge of provisions, clothing and stores (both his clerk and steward being among the dead), served as watch-officer, chaplain and nurse; was the last seized by the disease; nearly dying therewith at the Philadelphia lazaretto, to which the ship at length managed to sail. His frame never altogether renewed its former exuberant vigor. July 23, 1866, was one of the few selected (from some four hundred Acting Assistant Paymasters) as highly meriting promotion to the regular navy, and that at the advanced grade of Passed Assistant; the Board recording in this sole instance, and in red ink as emphasis, "Examination especially complimentary to Rodney." Again promoted, viz., to Paymaster, having the relative rank of Lieutenant-Commander, June 30, 1869. When 24, and under surety bond for only $5,000, he was entrusted with a Sub-Treasury account, and his checks were cashed to the extent of $150,000 and $175,000 each. Commended by Navy Department, February 19, 1878, as "Of exemplary character, whose conduct, in relation to Government funds and property entrusted to his custody, has been irreproachably honest and accurate;" and, by Treasury Department, February 7, 1876, as "Always one of the most dutiful and efficient of Paymasters." Never sought, nor suggested, a particular detail, nor to have one changed, however disagreeable. Author of "Alboin and Rosamond," and lesser poems, and "Pay-day at Babel." His family's name borne on the rolls of former United States Senate and House; Attorney-Generals United States, and Governors of Delaware; the Declaration of Independence; and English naval history and peerage.

George W. Melville.—It is rare to find high professional ability and the capacity to attend scrupulously to office-work and details combined in the same individual with the daring spirit and dauntless courage which lead to gallant deeds in the face of the most distressing conditions under which men can be placed. The "sound body" enabled the "sound mind" to do such things as Melville has accomplished,—for his life has been one of strange and stirring adventure. Although his name will ever be associated with the "Jeannette" Expedition, he was a volunteer for two other well known similar ventures to the far North, each of which accomplishes its mission "tuto, cito, jucunde,"—owing, in great measure, to the knowledge which he had of the things to be provided,—a complete outfit being the necessary adjunct of success in undertakings of this nature. De Long, in his journals, bears full testimony to his cheerful and steady co-operation during that trying drift through entirely unknown seas. When the supreme moment came, and with their own resources cut down to the lowest amount, the party had to make for an unknown shore, over a vast extent of ice and water, Melville was equal to the occasion. He commanded one of the three boats engaged in the retreat, and accomplished the feat of bringing that whole boat's crew out alive,—while the others perished, either in the icy waters of the Arctic or the equally inhospitable waste about the Lena delta. Most men would have thought that they had done enough; but, after a few days of rest to recuperate his forces, he again took his life in his hands and led a party which discovered, far down in that lonely, wintry waste, the bodies of De Long, Dr. Ambler, and their ill-starred companions. One boat, he rightly judged, had been lost during a night of storm, as they were approaching the land. In searching for the other boat's crew "he fought his perilous and painful way, mile by mile, through the rigors of perpetual winter and floating archipelagoes of ice along the Arctic coast for over five hundred miles, surviving the privations which had been fatal to so many, and persevered until his search was rewarded by the recovery of all the records of the 'Jeannette' Expedition." In the face of obstacles presented by the worst season, he penetrated to the mouth of the Lena in his search, and left no doubt that the unfortunate crew of the third boat had not succeeded in reaching the shore. As it was, he contributed to the geography of the world a new and important chart of that region. It was under his charge that the rude but massive tomb was built which sheltered the poor remains of the lost, "and the rites of Christian burial were performed over these martyrs to science and humanity, where perpetual winter had embalmed them." They were, however, subsequently exhumed by order of the United States government and brought home, to be laid among the dust of their kin, with impressive ceremonies. The Russian government offered every assistance to the officers who accomplished this pious mission, while our own government conferred substantial rewards upon those who had aided Melville in his extremity. For his Arctic services Engineer Melville afterwards received special promotion, with the approbation of the whole navy and of the country at large. Engineer-in-chief Melville was born in New York, of Scottish lineage, on January 10, 1841, and his education was acquired in the public schools, the school of the Christian Brothers, and the Brooklyn Polytechnic School. He entered the navy at the outbreak of the Civil War, and served well and faithfully, both during that trying period and afterwards,—when peace came,—on our own coast, in the West Indies, in Brazil, and on the East India Station; besides duty at navy-yards. He was everywhere a favorite, on account of his cheerful, modest and unostentatious deportment, as well as for the zeal, bravery and endurance which he showed on all occasions which were calculated to bring forth those qualities,—and there are not few, even in the ordinary course of service. Melville was made engineer-in-chief of the navy and chief of the Bureau of Steam-Engineering in August, 1887, and in January, 1892, was recommissioned in the same office, with the entire approbation of the whole navy, as well as that of the great industrial establishments with which he necessarily comes in contact in conducting a vast business. As an instance of his ability to accomplish unusual feats, and his capacity for extraordinary effort, we may mention the fact that in the summer of 1887 he himself prepared the general designs of the machinery of five vessels of the new navy. January, 1896, reappointed for the third term as Chief of the Bureau of Steam Engineering, where he is still on duty.

Retired, June 6, 1884.

William H. Shock.—Born in Maryland. Appointed from Maryland, January 18, 1845; entered the naval service as Third Assistant Engineer, during the Mexican War; served on board the steamers "General Taylor," "Princeton," "Spitfire," and the frigate "Mississippi," in which vessels, at different periods, he participated in the capture of Tampico, under Commodore Connor, and Alvarado, Tuspan, Tlacotalpan, and Vera Cruz, under Commodore Perry. Promoted to Second Assistant Engineer, July 10, 1847; ordered to the steamer "Engineer," Home Squadron. Promoted to First Assistant Engineer, October 31, 1848; 1849, was Senior Engineer steamer "Legaré," Coast Survey; 1850-1, special duty at Philadelphia, superintending construction of machinery of steam-frigate "Susquehanna." Promoted to Chief Engineer, March, 1851; 1851-2, special duty, Boston, Massachusetts, superintending construction of machinery of steamer "Princeton;" 1853-4, Inspecting Engineer of ocean steamers for United States mail service, and Chief Engineer of steamer "Princeton," Home Squadron; 1854-5, West Point, superintending construction of machinery for United States steam-frigate "Merrimac;" 1855-6, Chief Engineer, steam-frigate "Merrimac," Home Squadron; 1857-60, Chief Engineer, steam-frigate "Powhatan," East India Squadron; 1860-2, President of Examinaing Board of Engineers; 1862-3, special duty at St. Louis, superintending construction of river monitors; 1863-5, Fleet Engineer, West Gulf Squadron, participating in the capture of Forts Gaines and Morgan, under Admiral Farragut, and the Spanish Fort and city of Mobile, under Admiral Thatcher; 1865-6, Chief Engineer of Boston Navy Yard; 1867-8, Chief Engineer of Washington Navy Yard; 1868-9, Fleet Engineer of European Squadron; 1869-70, Inspector of Machinery Afloat, and member of Board of Visitors to Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland; in the summer of 1870, was appointed Acting Chief of Bureau of Steam Engineering, retiring from the office with the written thanks of the Department for the efficient manner in which the duties of the Bureau were discharged; in 1871, was again called to take temporary charge of the Bureau of Steam Engineering, and on retiring from the position was actively employed on other duty in the United States until 1873, when he was ordered to Europe on a tour of inspection of public and private dock-yards, and to represent the Bureau of Steam Engineering at the International Exhibition at Vienna, and by direction of the President was appointed one of the American Judges of Awards; returning from Europe, was detailed to other duty until March 3, 1877, when he was appointed and confirmed Engineer-in-Chief of the United States Navy, and served until he was retired, June 15, 1883.

Theodore Zeller.—Born in New York. Appointed from New York, Third Assistant Engineer in the United States Navy, June 15, 1843, and ordered to duty on board the frigate "Missouri," for a cruise which terminated at Gibraltar, September 26, 1843, by the loss of the ship by fire; July 20, 1844, ordered to duty on board steamer "Colonel Harney," stationed in the Gulf of Mexico and in the rivers of Florida and Louisiana, for the protection of live-oak timber, until February 21, 1846; March 23, 1846, ordered to duty in the Bureau of Construction, Equipment, and Repairs, as Assistant to the Engineer-in-Chief; remained until October 23, 1846. Examined, passed, and promoted to the grade of Second Assistant Engineer, February 17, 1847; March 23, 1847, ordered to the steamer "Union," at Washington, and detached, May 25, 1847, as the vessel was condemned as unfit for service; October 20, 1847, ordered to the steamer "Iris," as Senior Assistant Engineer, and after three months as Acting Chief Engineer until the termination of the war with Mexico; detached, December 18, 1848; April 18, 1849, ordered to the Pacific Ocean, to join the "Massachusetts" as Senior Engineer; this vessel had been detailed for special service with a joint commission of army and navy officers, to select a site for a navy yard in California, and sites for fortifications on the coast of California and Oregon; the discovery of gold in California rendered it impossible to obtain white seamen for the wages then allowed, and natives of the Sandwich Islands and Chinese, none of whom could speak English, were with difficulty obtained to compose a crew; with these the bays, straits, and inlets of California and Oregon were explored, and the object of the commission was accomplished. Promoted to the grade of First Assistant Engineer, November 6, 1849, while on the last-mentioned cruise; detached, March 25, 1853; October 18, 1853, ordered as Senior Assistant Engineer of the frigate "Saranac;" made the cruise with this vessel, and returned to the United States from the Mediterranean, July 26, 1856. Examined and promoted to the grade of Chief Engineer, August 15, 1856, with date of June 27, 1855; August 12, 1857, ordered to the frigate "Saranac" for duty in the Pacific Ocean; detached, November 19, 1859, and returned to the United States; December 31, 1859, ordered to Erie, Pennsylvania, to superintend repairs to the steamer "Michigan;" November 19, 1860, appointed member of a Board on the "Michigan," to make a series of important experiments with steam; after the completion of these, was ordered again to the "Michigan," for duty on the Lakes; June 3, 1861, detached from the "Michigan," and ordered to New York, to superintend the building of machinery for gunboats, screw-sloops-of-war, iron-clads, and other vessels, upon which, with other duties, he was engaged up to May 19, 1863, when he was appointed Fleet Engineer of the Eastern Gulf Squadron with rank of Captain, and remained upon the staff of Rear-Admiral Theodore Bailey, until September 1, 1864, when the Department permitted him to return North to recruit his health, after severe illness from yellow fever; he was, however, immediately ordered to the North Atlantic Squadron, and reported to Admiral David D. Porter for duty, on the 5th of October, as Fleet Engineer, on which duty he remained until the close of the war; in a letter to the Secretary of the Navy, dated August 6, 1864, Rear-Admiral Bailey, then in command of the Eastern Gulf Blockading Squadron, speaks in very complimentary terms of the services of Mr. Zeller as Fleet Engineer, and in the following month, Hon. Gideon Welles, Secretary of the Navy, sent a letter to Chief Engineer Zeller, then in New York, in which he expresses his gratification at the efficient and satisfactory manner in which that officer had performed his duties as Fleet Engineer; August 9, 1865, ordered to the Philadelphia Navy Yard as Chief Engineer; detached from that station, March 10, 1869; ordered to special duty at New York, July 8, 1869; and detached on April 11, 1874, when he was ordered to report to Chief Engineer B. F. Isherwood, U. S. Navy, for duty connected with preparing reports on performances of vessels during the war; November, 1875, ordered in conjunction with Chief Engineer Isherwood to proceed to Europe and examine the dock-yards, vessels, and professional methods of the British, French, and Italian navies, also the large private engineering establishments of Western Europe; early in the year of 1877, ordered as member of the Experimental Board, which was permanently employed in experimenting with and reporting upon a great variety of steam-engines, boilers, propellers, and vessels, including all new inventions and improvements in machinery, and in investigating the economic laws of steam and other fluids used in the production of power, various methods of forced draught for boilers, etc., etc.; October 6, 1884, became President of the Board, and made important experiments and reports on the laws of steering by rudder and by propeller, and on completing this service, having attained the age of 62 years, he was, according to law, transferred to the list of retired officers of the navy with the rank of Commodore, on Dec. 1, 1885.

Montgomery Fletcher.—Born in Virginia. Appointed from Pennsylvania, June 25, 1850. Entered the service as Third Assistant Engineer; Coast Survey, 1850–1. Promoted Second Assistant Engineer, February 21, 1851; special duty, Norfolk, 1852–3; steam frigate "Saranac," Mediterranean Squadron, 1854–6. Promoted to First Assistant Engineer, June 21, 1856; office of Engineer-in-Chief, 1857; steam-frigate "Wabash," Home Squadron, 1857–8. Promoted to Chief Engineer, October 25, 1859; steam-frigate "Saranac," Pacific Squadron, 1861–5; special duty, New York, 1866; Navy Yard, Mare Island, California, 1867–71; Fleet-Engineer, Pacific Squadron, 1871–3; Inspector Machinery Afloat, Mare Island, 1873–6; Navy Yard, Mare Island, 1877–8; member Board of Inspection, California, 1884–90; Bureau of Steam-Engineering, 1890, until date of retirement, February 15, 1892.

David B. Maccomb.—Born in Tallahassee, Fla. Appointed from Pennsylvania, January 11, 1849, as Third Assistant Engineer; office of Engineer-in-Chief, 1849–50; steamer "Bibb," Coast Survey, 1850–1. Promoted to Second Assistant Engineer, February 26, 1851; steamer "Bibb," Coast Survey, 1851–2; steamer "John Hancock," Exploring Expedition to the North Pacific, China, and Japan Seas, 1853–5. Promoted to First Assistant Engineer, June 26, 1856; steam-frigate "Wabash," flag-ship, Home Squadron, 1856–7; steam-frigate "Saranac," Pacific Squadron, 1858–9. Promoted to Chief Engineer, September 21, 1860; steam-frigate "Niagara," sent to convey the Japanese Ambassadors to Yeddo, Japan, 1860; returned to the United States, April 23, 1861; and was the first war vessel on the blockade off Charleston, S. C.; at the bombardment of Pensacola Navy Yard, and reduction of Fort McCrae, November, 1861; special duty connected with building iron-clads, Boston, 1862; iron-clad monitors "Nahant" and "Canonicus," James River Fleet and North Atlantic Blockading Squadron, 1863–5; iron-clad monitor "Canonicus," at the reduction of Howlett's House battery, James River, June 21, 1864; at the battles of Dutch Gap, and Deep Bottom, August 13, 1864; in the "Canonicus," at Fort Fisher, December 24 and 25, 1864; at the final reduction and occupation of that place by the combined army and naval forces, January 14, 15, and 16, 1865; from thence to Charleston, S. C.; at the evacuation by the rebels and occupation by United States forces of that city, February 18, 1865, the iron-clad "Canonicus" throwing the last hostile shot at the defences of that place; "Canonicus" sent in pursuit of rebel ram "Stonewall;" went to Havana, Cuba, June, 1865; first American iron-clad that ever entered a foreign port; special duty, Baltimore, 1866; Navy Yard, Pensacola, 1867; Navy Yard, Portsmouth, 1868–70; steam-sloop "Tennessee," special service, 1870–1; Fleet-Engineer, N. A. Fleet, 1871–3; Navy Yard, Portsmouth, N. H., 1873–7; Fleet-Engineer, N. A. Station, 1877–9; President of the Statutory Board of Appraisal and Survey, and in charge of stores, Portsmouth, N. H., 1880–3; Navy Yard, Boston, Mass., 1884–9. Retired, February 27, 1889, with relative rank of Commodore, according to Paragraph 1481, Revised Statutes of the United States, having arrived at the age of sixty-two years, and served forty years and over in active service.

Alexander Henderson.—Born in District of Columbia. Appointed from Virginia, February, 26, 1851. Entered the service as Third Assistant Engineer; steam frigate "Susquehanna," East Indian Squadron, 1852–5. Promoted to Second Assistant Engineer, May 21, 1853; office of Engineer-in-Chief, 1856; steam-frigate "Susquehanna," Mediterranean Squadron, 1857–8. Promoted to First Assistant Engineer, May 9, 1857; steamer "Southern Star," Brazil Squadron and Paraguay Expedition, 1858; steam-sloop "Iroquois," Mediterranean Squadron, 1859–60. Promoted to Chief Engineer, June 28, 1861; special service, 1861; steam-sloop "Adirondack," Blockading Squadron, 1862; special duty, Newburg, N. Y., 1863; iron-clad "Onondaga," North Atlantic Blockading Squadron, 1864–5; special duty, Navy Yard, Washington, 1866; Navy Yard, Boston, 1867–8; special duty, 1869; Fleet-Engineer, Asiatic Fleet, 1869–72; Navy Yard, New York, 1873–7; special duty, 1877–9; Fleet Engineer, European Station, 1879–81; special duty, Washington, 1882–4; member of Advisory Board, 1884–8; Navy Yard, Boston, 1889–93; leave of absence, July, 1893, to October, 1893; Continental Iron Works, Brooklyn, October, 1893, to date of retirement, July 12, 1894.

Edward Dunham Robie.—Born in Burlington, Vermont. Appointed Third Assistant Engineer in the Navy, from Binghamton, N. Y., February

16, 1852; from March 4, 1852, until April 28, 1855, served in the steam-frigate "Mississippi," which was the flag-ship of Commodore M. C. Perry, in the Japan Expedition; erected and operated the first line of telegraph, and took the first daguerreotypes at Napha, Lew Chew, and assisted in building the first steam railroad and in running the first locomotive in Japan; circumnavigated the globe in the "Mississippi," in June, 1855, was promoted, and served on board U. S. S. "Michigan," on the lakes, from September, 1855, until March, 1856, when transferred to the steam-frigate "Susquehanna," which was employed on the European Station, and as convoy for the "Niagara," while laying the first ocean telegraph cable across the Atlantic; after the failure of that attempt, in 1857, the "Susquehanna" was sent to Greytown, Nicaragua, to capture Walker's Filibusters, and remained there until a yellow fever epidemic compelled return to New York, in April, 1858; in July, 1858, was promoted to First Assistant Engineer, and in September went to Liberia, Africa, in the U. S. S. frigate "Niagara," to return captured slaves; in March, 1859, joined the flag-ship "Lancaster" at Philadelphia, and doubled Cape Horn in that vessel; was transferred at Panama to the U. S. S. frigate "Saranac," as Senior Engineer, during the search for the lost sloop-of-war "Levant," in 1860; returned to New York in September, 1861, and was commissioned as Chief Engineer, with date of July 30, 1861; in October, 1861, joined the U. S. S. "Mohican," and served in that vessel during the capture of the forts at Port Royal, S. C., Brunswick, Ga., Fernandina, Fla., and on blockading duty; returned to New York in July, 1862, and was employed there on special duty, as inspector of the construction of the ocean monitor "Dictator's" hull and machinery, until the winter of 1863-4, when took charge of Ericsson torpedoes in steamship "Ericsson," for removing obstructions in the harbor of Charleston, S. C.; was Chief Engineer of the "Dictator" in 1864-5, and also member of many Boards of Inspection, Courts Martial, etc., in various places; was Member of Board of Examiners for Naval Engineers, from December, 1865, until October, 1866, and then went to Pacific Station via Strait of Magellan in U. S. S. "Ossipee," and joined the flag-ship "Pensacola" as Fleet Engineer of the North Pacific Station; returned to New York, via Panama, in March, 1869, and served as Senior Engineer Member of Board to examine and report the condition of vessels at the Navy Yards on Atlantic Coast; was Inspector of Machinery afloat at Navy Yard, Boston, 1869-71; Fleet Engineer, European Station, in flag-ship "Wabash," 1871-4; Fleet Engineer of the North Atlantic Station, and of the combined fleets at Key West and in the Gulf of Mexico, in 1874; in charge of Steam Engineering Department of Navy Yard at Norfolk, Va., 1874-7; special duty at Pittsburg, Pa., Cold Spring, N. Y., and President of the Board to determine best Steam Steering Gear for use in the Naval Service, from 1877-79; Fleet Engineer of the Pacific Station, 1879-81, in U. S. F. S. "Pensacola;" in charge of the Steam Engineering Department of the Navy Yards at Boston, Mass., 1881-4; Brooklyn, N. Y., 1884-7, and Norfolk, Va., 1887-91; special inspecting duty and duty at the Bureau of Steam Engineering, Navy Department, Washington, D. C., 1891-3, and until placed on the retired list on account of age, with the relative rank of Commodore, from September 11, 1893.

John W. Moore.—Born in New York. Appointed from New York, May 21, 1853; entered the service as Third Assistant Engineer; duty in office of Engineer-in-Chief, Navy Department, Washington, 1853; steam-frigate "Saranac," Mediterranean Squadron, 1853-6. Promoted to Second Assistant Engineer, June 27, 1855; steam-frigate "Niagara," Atlantic Cable Expedition, 1857; steam-frigates "Colorado" and "Roanoke," Home Squadron, 1858-60. Promoted to First Assistant Engineer, July 21, 1858; steam-sloop "Richmond," Mediterranean Squadron, 1860-1; West Gulf Blockading Squadron, 1861-3. Promoted to Chief Engineer, August 5, 1861; participated in engagement at head of passes of Mississippi River with rebel batteries and ram "Manassas," October 12, 1861; attack on rebel defences at Pensacola, November 22, 1861; Forts Jackson and St. Philip, April 24, 1862; capture of New Orleans, April 25, 1862; passage of Vicksburg batteries, June 27, 1862; passage of Vicksburg batteries and rebel ram "Arkansas," July 15, 1862; Port Hudson, March 15, 1863; capture of Port Hudson, July 8, 1863; was the originator of the plan adopted by the vessels composing Farragut's Fleet for protecting the sides of the ships with their chain cable, and also of covering the ships with a paint composed of the mud of the Mississippi River, to screen them from view, both of which devices were afterwards used, the cable by the "Kearsarge" in her memorable fight with the "Alabama," and the painting of the ships that color by general order of the Navy Department; when the "Richmond" returned North for repairs, in August, 1863, was detached and assigned duty in New York, under Admiral Gregory, superintendent iron clads, in Philadelphia; as member of Board of Examiners, and afterwards at Boston to superintend government work building at Atlantic and other works in that vicinity; May 15, 1867, ordered to frigate "Franklin," as Fleet-Engineer on staff of Admiral Farragut; detached, December 21, 1868, and ordered Board duty New York Yard; to Navy Yard, Portsmouth, New Hampshire; member of Board of which Admiral Goldsborough was President, for examination into condition of all vessels at different Navy Yards, after which returned to duty at Kittery Navy Yard; September 3, 1872, was ordered to "Hartford" as Fleet-Engineer of Asiatic Station; detached, December 19, 1875, and ordered as Chief Engineer of the Washington Navy Yard, February 8, 1876-9; member Board of Inspection, 1879-82; "Hartford," Pacific Station, 1882-4; special duty, Navy Yard, New York, 1886-8; Navy Yard, Mare Island, 1888-93; Inspector Machinery for new cruisers, May, 1893, to date of retirement, May, 1894.

Promoted to First Assistant Engineer, 1859; steam-sloop "Lancaster," Pacific Squadron, 1859-61. Promoted to Chief Engineer, September 21, 1861; special duty "Mystic," Connecticut, 1862-3; steam-sloop "Hartford," flag-ship, West Gulf Blockading Squadron, 1863-4; special duty, New York, 1865-7; Naval Academy, 1868-9; Fleet-Engineer, North Atlantic Fleet, 1870-1; Navy Yard, Portsmouth, New Hampshire, 1872-4; Fleet-Engineer, South Atlantic Station, 1874-6; charge of stores, Portsmouth, New Hampshire, 1877-8; Fleet-Engineer, North Atlantic Station, 1879-81; Navy Yard, Norfolk, 1881-5; Fleet Engineer, Pacific Station, 1885-7; Superintendent State, War and Navy Department Building, 1887, to date of retirement, August, 1895.

Jackson McElmell.—Born in Philadelphia, Pa., June 4, 1834. Appointed a Third Assistant Engineer in the Navy, from Pennsylvania, August 2, 1855; attached to Coast Survey steamer "Hetzal," 1856; "Niagara," Atlantic Cable Expedition, in 1857-8. Promoted to Second Assistant Engineer, 1858; steamer "Memphis" Brazil Squadron, and Paraguay Expedition, 1858-9. Promoted to First Assistant Engineer, in 1860; attached to steam-sloop "Powhatan," West Gulf Squadron, 1860-1; steam-gunboat "Octorara," mortar flotilla, Wilmington, North Carolina, blockade; engagement at Vicksburg, June 28, 1862. Promoted to Chief Engineer, February 2, 1862; U. S. S. "Richmond," West Gulf Squadron, 1863-5; battle of Mobile Bay, August 5, 1864; special duty, League Island, 1865-8; U. S. S. "Plymouth," European Station, 1869-71; special duty, Chester, Pa., 1872-5; "Powhatan," North Atlantic Squadron, from 1875 to 1878; special duty at League Island Navy Yard, 1879-82; detached from League Island Navy Yard, and ordered to "Tennessee," as Fleet-Engineer of North Atlantic Squadron, August 7, 1882; detached from "Tennessee," December 7, 1882; ordered to "Tennessee" again as Fleet-Engineer, North Atlantic Squadron, December 3, 1884; after which was transferred from the "Tennessee" to the U. S. flag-ship "Richmond," North Atlantic Station; detached from the "Richmond," December 5, 1887; ordered to present duty as President of the Naval Examining Board in session at Philadelphia, March 6, 1888, to date of retirement, June, 1896.

William W. Dungan.—Born in Maryland. Appointed from Maryland, June 26, 1856; entered the service as Third Assistant Engineer; attached to steam-frigate "Powhatan," East India Squadron, 1858-60. Promoted to First Assistant Engineer, 1860; steam-frigate "Minnesota," 1861; steam-gunboat "Ottawa," South Atlantic Blockading Squadron, 1861-2. Promoted to Chief Engineer, February 1, 1861; steam-sloop "Dacotah," North Atlantic Blockading Squadron, 1862-4; special duty, Philadelphia, 1865; steam-sloop "Pensacola," North Pacific Squadron, 1865-7; steam-sloop "Ossipee," North Pacific Squadron, 1867; steam-sloop "Lackawanna," North Pacific Squadron, 1868; special duty, Portsmouth, New Hampshire, 1869; special duty, Washington, 1870; Inspector of Machinery Afloat, Washington, 1871-2; "Powhatan," North Atlantic Station, 1872-5; charge of stores, Philadelphia, 1875-8; training-ship "Minnesota," 1878-81; "Brooklyn," South Atlantic Station, 1881-4; member Board of Examiners, 1884-5; special duty, Chester, 1885-7; Navy Yard, New York, 1888-91; President Experimental Board, New York, September, 1891, to November, 1893; Navy Yard, Norfolk, Va. November, 1893, to 1896; Cramp's ship-yard, March, 1896, to date of retirement, December, 1897.

WITH RELATIVE RANK OF CAPTAIN.

James W. King.—Born in Maryland, and appointed from that State, September 2, 1844, as Third Assistant Engineer; served in all the first small steamers owned by the navy, the "Fulton," original steamer, excepted; he was attached to the "Mississippi" in 1846-7, during the war with Mexico, and participated in the capture of all the towns on the Mexican coast, taken by the navy, except one. In 1847, he was transferred to the "Princeton," sent in search of Mexican privateers, that ship being then the first screw-ship of war of any nation to cross the Atlantic; returning home in 1849, he was, in 1850-2, attached to the "Saranac," Home Squadron, and the "Michigan," Northern Lakes. Having passed the three succeeding examinations, and served through the three grades of Assistant, he was, in 1852, promoted to Chief Engineer, and soon thereafter appointed, under a law of Congress, Inspector of Ocean Steamers at the port of New York, hulls, machinery, boats, and equipments of the Collins & Law Lines, carrying the United States Mails. In 1855 he was transferred to Philadelphia to superintend the construction of the machinery for the "Wabash," one of the largest ships then in the navy, and served in her the first cruise. April, 1858, he was appointed the Chief Engineer of the Navy Yard, New York, in charge of all the machinery in the yard, and served until April, 1861; during that time he organized the Engineer Department, and introduced many improvements and labor-saving machines in all departments. From the latter date until June, 1862, he was Chief Engineer of the Atlantic fleet, and participated in the capture of the forts at Hatteras, under Admiral Stringham, and the forts at Port Royal, under Admiral DuPont. In 1863 he was appointed superintendent of the hulls of all iron vessels and their machinery, building west of the Alleghanies. In leaving the fleet for this duty, Admiral DuPont wrote to him: "Your services have been of great value to the squadron, and I part with you reluctantly." The Captain of the fleet, C. R. P. Rodgers, wrote: "Chief Engineer King impressed me with the conviction of his thorough professional knowledge, fertile in resource, always clear and intelligible, always ready for service." The duties on the Western rivers covered the construction of vessels and their machinery, costing in the aggregate, when completed, about seven millions of dollars, spread over some nine hundred miles, thus involving the necessity of traveling from place to place by night, and working by day. January, 1865, he was ordered to examine and report on the condition of all contracts for iron naval vessels and machinery under construction. The order issued by the Secretary of the Navy, assigning him to this duty, contained the following paragraph: "It is deemed best that an engineer of approved integrity, and rigid and critical ability, should visit in detail every place outside the navy yards, where contract work is being executed for the navy, and after a personal and careful examination, report the condition of all such work, and whether it is equal in every respect to the specifications of the contracts. You are hereby selected for this important duty, on which you will enter the second proximo. You will make separate reports for every contract, and address them to the Secretary of the Navy." Under this order he examined and reported on the condition of the hulls of thirty-two monitors and their machinery, nine iron-screw tugs and machinery, thirty-one pairs of marine screw-engines, boilers, etc., in different localities, from Portland, Maine, to St. Louis, Mo. In 1866-7 he was again the Chief Engineer of the Navy Yard, New York. During this term a great number of steamers that had been employed on the blockade were sent to that yard for repairs, or to be sold, there being as many as seventy-seven vessels entered on the books, and eight hundred men employed under his orders. The duties connected with these ships, together with those of fitting up a new foundry, smithery, and other appliances, were greater than the work at the yard during the war. In retiring from this navy yard, after the second term, to enter on special duty, Rear-Admiral C. H. Bell, the Commandant of the Station, wrote: "Chief Engineer King cannot be surpassed as an engineer. His deportment to those under his command is decided and firm, causing respect and esteem. I regret the loss of an intelligent companion and officer." March 15, 1869, President Grant appointed him Chief of the Bureau of Steam Engineering, in the Navy Department. On the confirmation of this nomination by the Senate Ex-Assistant Secretary of the Navy, G. V. Fox, wrote: "I congratulate you upon an appointment that will add to your reputation, and give to the government capacity and honesty." Soon after entering upon the duties of this office, the system of propulsion by double expansion or compound engines, was being introduced into European ships, and in order to be thoroughly informed of the types employed, and to take advantage of the vast experience of the British constructing engineers under whose direction the machinery for immense fleets is put afloat yearly, he proceeded to Europe and made a careful investigation of the progress under way, and the results obtained; in his report he recommended the compound system for all naval vessels (since superseded by the triple-expansion engine), and he introduced the system into the ships then building. He also succeeded in getting the Naval Academy opened for the education of cadet engineers—two measures of importance for the navy.

On retiring from this office, March, 1873, the Secretary of the Navy wrote: "I embrace the opportunity to thank you for your able and efficient administration of the Bureau during the four years just past, and, in severing our official connection, to assure you of my continued personal esteem, and my wish for your continuing health and prosperity." March, 1873, he was appointed General Inspector of Engineering Works, and sent to Europe to collect information of useful appliances for the Navy; also to visit and report on machinery at the Vienna Exposition. In 1874 he was employed on duties in the United States. In 1875-6, he was again in Europe, under orders to examine and report on ships of war and the mercantile marine. The result of this tour was published, by order of the U. S. Senate, in a report called "European Ships of War," two editions, 1877 and 1878, and it was re-printed in England with advantage to the appropriator. In 1880 he published an illustrated volume entitled "The War Ships and Navies of the World." This book was favorably criticised in the papers, attracted much notice in England, and was quoted from in the House of Commons as the best authority at that date. His last station was four years of service at the Navy Yard, Boston. In summing up the duties of this officer it will be seen that he filled with satisfaction to the Navy Department, every position to which an engineer officer of the navy can be called. In addition to the regular assigned duties, he was a member of the Army, Navy and Coast Survey Board of Officers, in 1867, to examine and decide on League Island as a site for a navy yard. Before serving as a member of this Board, he had, by order of the Secretary of the Navy, visited the dock-yards of England and France, and furnished a report with maps (printed by order of Congress), showing the location and extent of each yard, also the position of the docks and buildings, with descriptions of the more important machinery and appliances. After the report of the Board was submitted to the Department, and before the site had been accepted, he was selected to see that the boundary line between the government land and the city was correctly located, and a drawing furnished. The same year was a member of a Board of Officers to decide on the claims of contractors for increased cost occasioned by action of the government, on forty-five naval vessels, built during the war, and, in 1868, he was a member of a Board to appraise for sale vessels at New Orleans, Cairo, Philadelphia, New York and Boston. In 1866 he was a member of the Army and Navy Board of Officers to examine the harbor and adjacent waters of Portland, Maine, to ascertain if the construction of a fresh-water basin for use of iron vessels was feasible, and he wrote the report; in 1876 he was a member of the Board of Naval Officers to examine the navy yards, to ascertain if any one of them could be dispensed with—all authorized by Congress. Besides the above-named, he served on many other Boards of Officers, as president or member, to decide upon questions of interest and importance to the naval service. Chief Engineer King was one of, if not the first officer of the navy, to advocate and take a decided stand in favor of iron and steel for the hulls of U. S. naval vessels, in opposition to the views of the senior constructors and many other officers. As may be seen by reference to his various official reports, embracing facts and figures, showing the advantage of iron and steel over wood as materials for ship-building, special attention of the Navy Department was called to the subject in his reports as Chief of Bureau, 1871-2, and overwhelming proof was produced in his report on "European Ships of War," 1878, pages 160, 161 and 162; also in his work, "The War Ships and Navies of the World," pages 516 to 522. These publications, together with his descriptions of the various new types of foreign war ships, and comments on our obsolete types of wooden vessels, had influence in showing the necessity of building a new fleet of modern ships commensurate with the wealth, extent and dignity of the country, and of types having no superiors in speed or power of offence and defence.

Edwin Fithian.—Born in New Jersey. Appointed from Pennsylvania, October 31, 1848. "HEADQUARTERS MILITARY DIVISION OF THE ATLANTIC,
NEW YORK, October 26, 1877.

"TO MAJOR CHARLES HEYWOOD,

"U. S. Marines, Marine Barracks, Washington, D. C.:

"SIR,—I am directed by Major-General Hancock to furnish you with the following extract from a special report made by him on the 24th inst., to the Adjutant-General of the army:

"HEADQUARTERS MILITARY DIVISION OF THE ATLANTIC,
"NEW YORK CITY, October 24, 1877.

"To the Adjutant-General, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.:

"While all the officers are entitled to commendation in their respective spheres, I deem it incumbent upon me to mention the names of the following, who held commands at important points during the disturbances, and certain staff officers as well, whose services were especially valuable.

The following is an extract from a letter from the Hon. Secretary of the Navy to the Colonel Commandant, U. S. M. C., dated August 17, 1877 :

* * * * *

“ This was to be expected from the well-established character of the marines, but is none the less gratifying to the Department, and it desires to express through you, to both officers and men, its high appreciation of them, and to assure them of its readiness to co-operate in the adoption of any measures necessary to their comfort and an increase of their efficiency. They are a most important arm of the national defence, and the readiness with which they have responded to the recent summons of the Department to aid in the suppression of unlawful combinations of men, no less than their proficiency in discipline, proves that they may be confidently relied upon whenever the public exigency shall call them into active service.

(Signed) “ ‘ Respectfully,

“ ‘ R. W. THOMPSON,

“ ‘ Secretary of the Navy.”

“ COLONEL CHARLES G. McCAWLEY,

“ ‘ Commanding Marine Corps, Headquarters, D. C.”

May, 1880, ordered to command Marine Barracks, Mare Island, Cal.; detached, February, 1883, and ordered to command Marine Barracks, Brooklyn, N. Y. Colonel Heywood, in obedience to the following telegram, organized and equipped a battalion of two hundred and fifty marines for duty on the Isthmus of Panama, to open the transit and protect American lives and property.

“ ‘ NAVY DEPARTMENT, April 1, 1885.

(Telegram.)

“ ‘ COMMANDANT, NAVY YARD, NEW YORK :

“ ‘ Every available officer and man from all the stations are ordered to report without delay at Marine Barracks, Brooklyn, for service on the Isthmus of Panama.

“ ‘ Detail Major Heywood, four officers, and every available man from the ‘ Colorado,’ ‘ Minnesota,’ and Barracks, to join the Pacific Mail steamer in a few days, fully equipped.

“ ‘ Retain guard of ‘ Omaha.’ Major Heywood will command the whole force. Letter to-morrow.

Reported with battalion of two hundred and fifty men at the expiration of twenty-four hours from the date of the order, and sailed for the Isthmus. Arrived at Aspinwall on the night of the 11th of April, 1885, and at six o'clock the next morning disembarked. At six o'clock the same night, occupied, with the entire command, the railroad company's buildings at the Panama end of the line, forty-seven and a half miles distant, situated outside the walls of the city of Panama, and the transit was opened. The transit was kept open by a detachment on every train. Subsequently, Colonel Heywood, reinforced by the second battalion, and during the remainder of the occupation by our forces, had under his command nearly eight hundred marines, besides a strong detachment of sailors and artillery. Colonel Heywood and his command were the first to arrive and the last to leave the Isthmus, which was only done when the rebel forces had surrendered and the Federal authority was reinstated.

The following is a copy of a letter received from Rear-Admiral James E. Jouett, commanding naval force, North Atlantic Station :

“ ASPINWALL, U. S. C., May 22, 1885.

“ COLONEL CHARLES HEYWOOD, U. S. M. C., “ Commanding Marine Battalion, Isthmus of Panama.

“ Your departure from the Isthmus with your command gives me occasion to express my high estimation of the Marine Battalion. You and your battalion came from home at the first sound of alarm, and you have done hard and honest work. The Marine Battalion has been constantly at the front, where danger and disease were sure to come, first and always. When a conflict has seemed imminent, I have relied with most implicit confidence on that body of tried soldiers. No conflict has come, but I am well aware how nobly and steadily through weary and anxious nights, exposed to a deadly climate, the marines have guarded our country's interest.

“ Please communicate to your command my grateful acknowledgment of their faithful service on the Isthmus of Panama, and accept my sincere thanks for your earnest and valuable assistance.

(Signed)

“ J. E. JOUETT,

“ Rear-Admiral Commanding.”

Charles L. McCawley.—Captain and Assistant Quartermaster, June, 1897. Captain McCawley is a son of the late Colonel Charles McCawley, former Commandant of the Marine Corps. Captain McCawley had served for many years as chief clerk in the Commandant's office, and his appointment was a graceful recognition by President McKinley of his distinguished father's services to the country. Upon the declaration of war against Spain Captain McCawley requested active service, and is at this date serving as Quartermaster with the marines under Lieutenant-Colonel Huntington, at Camp McCalla, Cuba.

COLONEL.

James Forney.—Born in Pennsylvania. Commissioned Second Lieutenant, March 1, 1861; flag-ship "Roanoke," Atlantic Squadron, 1861. First Lieutenant, September, 1861. October, 1861, commanding Marine Barracks, Washington, D. C.; November, 1861, commanding Marine Barracks, Portsmouth, N. H.; steam-sloop "Brooklyn," West Gulf Squadron, 1861-2, and part of 1863; participated in the capture of Forts Jackson and St. Philip, and the city of New Orleans; official reports of that time state that Lieutenant James Forney, commanding marines, had two guns assigned him, and, with his men, fought most gallantly. He was brevetted a Captain for gallant and meritorious service at the attack on Forts Jackson and St. Philip, April 24, 1862; while attached to the West Gulf Squadron he was in the battles of Chalmette, Port Hudson, Grand Gulf, first and second attacks on Vicksburg, Donaldsonville, Bayou Sara, Galveston, Texas, February 24, 1863; at Brazos de Santiago cut out and captured four vessels laden with valuable drugs from under the rebel batteries. Commissioned Captain, April 23, 1864; July, 1864, commanded troops, both regular and volunteer, at Havre de Grace, Md. In this connection, General French reports as follows:

... "The army of the Confederates, under Jubal Early, was at the gates of Washington; communication with the Northern cities was cut off; Gilmore's cavalry had captured a passenger train (made prisoner of General Franklin), and then destroyed it, and burned the bridge over Gunpowder River. The city of Philadelphia was full of the gloomiest reports, and a feeling of depression which culminated when a rumor prevailed that Washington had fallen. The War Department shared in these fears, and, by telegraph, all the available troops at the West were ordered to assemble at Havre de Grace, Md. At the same time a dispatch requested me to assume command of them. In less than eight hours' time three thousand men had reported of all arms of the service. Captain F. was the first on the ground, with a splendid battalion of troops of the Marine Corps, and eight field-howitzers. These troops were at once advanced; a part covered the reconstructions of the bridges, and others were made to demonstrate upon the rebel rear and flanks preparatory to an advance. The same day the travel through to Baltimore was opened. Early, threatened in every direction, fell back. . . . For this duty received the brevet of Lieutenant-Colonel, for meritorious services in defeating a rebel raid at Gunpowder River in July, 1864; flag-ship 'Hartford,' Fleet Marine Officer, Asiatic Squadron, 1865-8; while attached to the 'Hartford,' commanded marines in the attack on the Island of Formosa; this fight was an unusually severe and exhausting one, owing to the climate and the nature of the ground. For this engagement he was brevetted a Major for gallant and meritorious services in the action with the savages at Formosa, June 13, 1867; October 11, 1870 commanded the marines in the colored riots at Philadelphia, in enforcing the Fifteenth Amendment, being the first vote of the colored people."

In 1869, commanded the troops while aiding the revenue officers in breaking up the whiskey distilleries in the city of Philadelphia; from June 10, 1872, and part of 1873, in Europe on special duty; September, 1873, U. S. frigate "Minnesota;" from December, 1874-6, Fleet Marine Officer, North Pacific Squadron; August, 1876, commanding marines, League Island; February 11, 1877-8, commanding marines, Norfolk, Va.; during summer of 1877, commanded Second Battalion Marines during the labor riots; on his return he and his command were complimented in general orders by the Honorable Secretary of the Navy and General Hancock; while at Norfolk, in 1887, was the first officer commanding regular troops to participate in the Southern Memorial Day and decorate the graves of men of the South who fell in the War of the Rebellion; in 1879, graduated at Torpedo School, Newport, R. I.; in 1879-81, commanded Recruiting Rendezvous at Philadelphia; September, 1882, commanded marines while in camp at Mount Vernon Barracks, Alabama, and afterwards at Pensacola Navy Yard; in 1883, commanded marines for a short time on receiving-ship "Colorado." February 24, 1884, commissioned Major. In 1885-87, commanded marines at Norfolk, Va.; during the Panama Expedition of this period conveyed marines of the barracks and training-ships in the U. S. S. "Despatch," from Norfolk to New York; part of 1887-8 commanded marines at League Island, Phila.; commanded marines at Mare Island Navy Yard, June, 1888, to November, 1892. Commissioned Lieutenant-Colonel, January 30, 1891. Commissioned Colonel, July 11, 1892; Marine Barracks, Navy Yard, New York, November, 1892-96; commanding Marine Barracks, Portsmouth, N. H., in 1896-7; commanding Marine Barracks, League Island, Phila., 1897, to present date, June, 1898.

LIEUTENANT-COLONELS.

Robert W. Huntington.—Commissioned as Second Lieutenant, 1861; Marine Barracks, Washington, 1861; attached to Marine Battalion at battle of Bull Run; served in Marine Battalion, co-operating with South Atlantic Squadron, 1861-2; sloop "Jamestown," East India Squadron, 1862-5. Commissioned as Captain, June 21, 1864; Marine Barracks, Brooklyn, 1866; Marine Barracks, Portsmouth, 1866-7; Marine Barracks, Gosport, 1867; Headquarters, 1867-8; Marine Barracks, Boston, 1868-9; "Lancaster," flag-ship, South Atlantic Squadron, 1870-2; Marine Barracks, Portsmouth, 1873-4; Marine Barracks, Washington, 1875; Marine Barracks, Portsmouth, 1875-6; commanding marines at League Island, 1876; Fleet Marine Officer, North Pacific Station, 1876-9; Marine Barracks, Annapolis, 1879-83; Marine Barracks, Boston, Mass., 1883; commanding Marine Barracks, Norfolk, Va., 1884; Panama Expedition, April and May, 1885; Marine Barracks, Norfolk, Va., 1885; commanding Marine Barracks, Annapolis, 1885-7; "Trenton," special service, 1887-9. Promoted Major, October 24, 1889; commanding Marine Barracks, Brooklyn, 1889-92. Promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel, February, 1897; Marine Barracks, Navy Yard, Norfolk, 1892-7; commanding Marine Barracks, Navy Yard, New York, February, 1898; in April, 1898, designated to command the battalion of marines ordered to sail in the "Panther" for Key West, for duty in connection with the N. A. Squadron. At this date (June, 1898) the marines under Lieutenant-Colonel Huntington, are at Camp McCalla, Cuba, having had the honor of making the first landing in Cuba some days in advance of the army. For a week after the landing this little force of marines were almost constantly engaged with the Spaniards, the men showing the coolness and nerve of veterans, and winning for Col. Huntington and their distinguished corps, the applause of the whole country.

P. C. Pope.—Born in Massachusetts. Appointed from New Hampshire, Captain's Clerk, United States Navy; attached to steam-sloop "Richmond," 1861; in the engagements at the Passes of the Mississippi River, October 12 and 13, 1861. Commissioned as Second Lieutenant, November 23, 1861, Marine Corps. Commissioned as First Lieutenant, November 26, 1861; served at Headquarters of the Marine Corps, 1861-2; Marine Barracks, Charlestown, Mass., 1862; Marine Battalion, South Carolina, 1862; Marine Barracks, Portsmouth, N. H., 1862; steam-frigate "Powhatan," 1862-4; South Atlantic Blockading Squadron, and West India Squadron, with a battalion of marines on Morris Island, July, 1863; in the engagements with and capture of Forts Moultrie and Bee, August, 1863, with Captain Steedman, U. S. N., on the monitor fleet. Brevetted Captain for gallant and meritorious services in action, September 8, 1863; Marine Barracks, Charlestown, Mass., 1864-7; steam sloop "Monongahela" West India Squadron, 1867; steam-frigate "Susquehanna," flag-ship, West India Squadron, 1867-8; steam-sloop "Monongahela," West India Squadron, 1868; Marine Barracks, Brooklyn, N. Y., 1868; Marine Barracks, Charlestown, Mass., 1868-70. Commissioned as Captain, April 12, 1870; Pacific Fleet, 1870-3; while attached to the Pacific Fleet, volunteered and took charge of a boat's crew, and went on board of an Italian ship (which was on fire) loaded with a cargo of petroleum, and the crew deserted, fearing an explosion; received a letter of thanks from the Italian government for services rendered on the occasion, and the following letter from the admiral commanding the squadron: "It affords me much gratification to transmit to you a copy of a letter from the Italian minister, at Washington, to the Department of State, conveying the thanks of the Italian government to yourself and other officers, for gallant and skillful services rendered on the occasion of a fire on board of the Italian bark 'Delaide,' in the port of Callao, on June 25, 1873. I will take this occasion to add, that no more agreeable duty can ever fall to the lot of a true naval or marine officer than that of relieving those who may be in imminent danger of shipwreck and destruction, to whatever nation they may belong; under such circumstances, the genuine man, of whatever profession he may be, knows no nationality; to him, all belong to the same family. These sentiments seem to have actuated you, in your spirited behavior upon the occasion of the fire on board of the Italian bark 'Delaide.'" Recruiting Rendezvous, Boston, Mass., 1874-5; Marine Barracks, Plymouth, N. H., 1875; Marine Barracks, Charlestown, Mass., 1875-9; U. "HEADQUARTERS U. S. MARINE CORPS,
WASHINGTON, D. C., January 10, 1890.

"It is with great pleasure that the following letters of General W. B. Franklin, Commissioner-General of the United States to the Universal Exposition of 1889, at Paris, and the Hon. Secretary of the Navy, referring to the soldierly bearing and excellent conduct of the detachment of marines lately on duty at that Exposition, are published to the officers and enlisted men of U. S. Marine Corps.

"NAVY DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON,
January 9, 1890.

"SIR,—The Department takes pleasure in enclosing a copy of a communication, addressed to it under date of the 3d instant, by the Secretary of State, accompanied by copy of a letter from General W. B. Franklin, Commissioner-General to the Paris Exposition, commendatory of the detachment of marines at the Paris Exposition.

"Very respectfully,

"OFFICE OF THE UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER-GENERAL,
PARIS EXPOSITION OF 1889,
HARTFORD, CONN., December 28, 1889.

"SIR,—I have been officially informed that the detachment of United States Marines under the command of Captain Henry Clay Cochrane, U. S. Marine Corps, assisted by Lieutenant P. St. C. Murphy, of the same corps, which you were so kind as to detail for service at the Paris Universal Exposition of 1889, has returned to the United States arriving at New York on the 24th instant. I make the following statement concerning them:

"Their behavior during the Exposition and after its close was in all respects what it ought to have been; they were admirable in discipline; their conduct was irreproachable; their performance of duty was excellent.

"Their soldierly bearing and military appearance were far ahead in these qualities of any troops which I saw at the Exposition or in Paris. When they appeared as a body they were enthusiastically received, and it was the unanimous opinion, not only of those connected with the U. S. Commission, but of the citizens of the United States who visited the Exposition, that their presence added dignity to the United States exhibit, and that they did honor to their country and their flag.

"Captain Cochrane and Lieutenant Murphy not only performed their duties admirably as the officers of the detachment, but were of great assistance to me in various other duties that they were kind enough to undertake.

"The French authorities of the War Department were very kind in their reception of them, and in transporting them and in furnishing their quarters in the barracks of the Ecole Militaire with French troops. In fact all French troops treated them as comrades, and the relations between these soldiers and them were of the pleasantest kind.

"Dr. J. A. Toner, a citizen of the United States, resident in Paris, and medical attaché of the U. S. Commission attended the detachment professionally without compensation. It gives me pleasure to acknowledge his efficient and patriotic service.

"I thank you for having given me the opportunity of close acquaintance with such excellent troops.

"Respectfully yours,
" (Signed) W. B. FRANKLIN,
"U. S. Commissioner-General.

F. H. Corrie.—Appointed Second Lieutenant, November 26, 1861; served in Marine Battalion at Port Royal in 1861-2, and took part in the Naval assault on Fernandina, Florida, 1862; November, 1862, was ordered to and proceeded with battalion of marines, under command of Major Addison Garland, to Navy Yard at Mare Island, California, taking passage on board the Pacific mail steamer "Ariel." This steamer was overhauled on the high seas by the Confederate cruiser "Alabama," and the officers and men comprising the battalion of marines were made prisoners of war, and paroled by the commanding officer of the "Alabama" for three months each. Arrived at Mare Island and went on duty at the Navy Yard as soon as exchanged, being of the first prisoners exchanged during the war; remained on duty on Mare Island until July 22, 1864, and then ordered to proceed to Marine Barracks, Brooklyn, for duty at that port, serving there until October 11, 1864; ordered from Brooklyn in command of marine guard on board of the steamer "Juniata," North Atlantic Station; November 29, 1864, detached from "Juniata" and ordered to command the marine guard on board of the "Powhatan," flag-ship, Third Division, in preparation for the attack on Fort Fisher; December, 1864, and January, 1865, at Fort Fisher; commanded the marine guard of the "Powhatan," and marines, in both engagements, manning a battery of 9-inch guns; landed on the beach below Fort Fisher, January 16, 1865, and commanded a company of marines in the assault of that date; was favorably mentioned by Commodore Schenck, division commander, in his report of that engagement. Promoted Brevet-Captain, January 14, 1865; March, 1865, while the "Powhatan" was "repairing damages" sustained at Fort Fisher, obtained a short leave of absence; went to the front at Petersburg and Richmond, and volunteered as aide-de-camp to General Miles, commanding First Division, Second Army Corps; for his services in the severe battle of March 25, he was publicly thanked on the field by General Miles, who next day wrote as follows:

"SIR,—Permit me to acknowledge the service rendered by you in the battle of the 25th. Acting entirely in a volunteer capacity upon my staff, your coolness and gallant bearing under the severest fire were calculated to give encouragement to the troops, while your prompt transmittal of orders proved you to be a most efficient aide-de-camp. Please accept my thanks for the valuable assistance you afforded me yesterday in an engagement which, being in an entirely different arm of the service from your own, was marked by unusual spirit and severity."

Reported for duty on the steamer "Powhatan," flag-ship, South Atlantic Squadron, and proceeded to Key West, thence to Cuba, where the "Powhatan" performed the duty of watching the rebel ram "Stonewall Jackson," then lying in the port of Cuba; May 10, 1865, detached from the "Powhatan" and ordered to the Marine Barracks, Norfolk, Virginia; in December, 1866, detached from the barracks and ordered to the command of the marine guard on board of the receiving-ship "New Hampshire," at Norfolk, Virginia; October 28, 1867, detached from the "New Hampshire" and ordered to command the marine guard on board the receiving-ship "Vermont," at New York; June 14, 1868, detached from the receiving-ship "Vermont," and ordered to command the marine guard on board of the "Juniata," preparing for service in the European Squadron. Promoted Captain Marine Corps, February 12, 1870; served on board of the "Juniata," attached to the Mediterranean Squadron, until April 10, 1872, and then detached and ordered to command the marine guard on board the "Plymouth," in the same squadron; returned to the United States on board the "Plymouth" via South African coast, and detached from her June 30, 1873, and ordered to Marine Barracks, Mare Island; June 17, 1874, detached from Mare Island, and ordered on board of the "Pensacola," flag-ship of the North Pacific Squadron, as Fleet Marine-Officer; relieved December 30, 1874, and ordered to Marine Barracks, Mare Island, for duty at that post; detached from Mare Island, September 15, 1876, and ordered to Marine Barracks, Brooklyn; detached from Marine Barracks, Brooklyn, and ordered to flag-ship "Pensacola," Pacific Station, as Fleet Marine Officer, July, 1880; detached from "Pensacola" and ordered to proceed to China for duty on board the flag-ship "Richmond," as Fleet Marine-Officer of that station, 1884; detached from "Richmond" and ordered to Marine Barracks, Brooklyn, N. Y.; in July, 1885, commanded the Battalion of Marines in the escort to the funeral of General U. S. Grant. Retired, September, 1885, in consequence of disabilities received in the service. During the labor riots of July and August, 1877, was ordered on the 24th of July to command the marine guard of the "Colorado," of fifty men, and proceed to Watervliet Arsenal, Troy, New York, for the purpose of guarding and protecting government property at that place; served there until August 20, 1877, being relieved by general order No. 30, issued by Brevet Brigadier-General P. V. Hagner, commanding, in which order "the detachment of marines under command of Captain F. A. Corrie, U. S. Marine Corps," receives his hearty thanks, and "both officers and men are commended for their cheerful assistance and soldier-like conduct in the discharge of the duties assigned to them." ADDENDA.

Richmond Pearson Hobson.—To those not of the service who, in scanning the pages of this volume, look in vain for the record of the gallant Hobson, the editor deems it fitting to explain that this book of Records stops at the rank of Lieutenant, and as, at this date, Mr. Hobson holds the relative rank of Junior Lieutenant, no sketch of his services appears. It is a loss to the volume, as no true account of his magnificent achievement could be written that would fail to stir the blood and excite the admiration of every sailor, no matter what his nationality.

Cleveland's Baking Powder

This powder is especially adapted to use in the navy.

It will keep in any climate.

R. E. Peary, U. S. N., took it with him on his Arctic expeditions. He states that "it stood the tests of use in those high latitudes and severe temperatures perfectly, and gave entire satisfaction."

Cleveland's Baking Powder has been purchased by the Government in large quantities for the troops in Cuba and the Philippines. As the purchases depended upon the results of tests of the various baking powders submitted, the selection of Cleveland's is high evidence of its merit.

Cleveland's is a pure cream of tartar baking powder, containing no alum, ammonia, phosphates or any adulteration. It does the work just right every time. It is the strongest of all pure cream of tartar baking powders, as shown by the official U. S. Government reports.

This baking powder has been on the market 28 years.

Those who have used it longest praise it most.

A copy of our cook book containing 400 choice receipts will be mailed free to any one mentioning this publication.

Cleveland's Baking Powder may be readily obtained of the wholesale grocery trade in all the principal cities of the United States.

THE ATLANTIC TRUST COMPANY, New York City.

This Company is selling its own 5% gold bonds at par. They run ten years with the privilege of payment reserved to the Company at any interest date after five years. They are issued in denominations of $200, $300, $500, $1000, $2,000, $3000 and $5,000. The interest is payable semi-annually in New York and Philadelphia.

Each $100,000 of the bonds is secured by $102,000 of carefully selected first mortgages of improved and productive real estate, deposited with one of the above-named Trust Companies as Trustee.

A large number of Insurance and Trust Companies, Savings Banks, Universities, Colleges, Trustees, Guardians and private individuals have been for many years and are now investing in the Company's securities.

Officers of the Navy will find in these bonds the two most desirable features of investments, namely, absolute security and a fair rate of interest. Further information will be furnished whenever desired.

The Graphophone

Is a complete talking machine that records as well as reproduces sound.

Other so-called talking machines reproduce only the cut and dried subjects made in laboratories. On a GRAPHOPHONE one can record instantly and reproduce at once and as often as desired, records of the voice, of music or of any sound.

The GRAPHOPHONE reproduces perfectly and brilliantly the music of bands, orchestras, operatic choruses or vocal or instrumental soloists.

With a GRAPHOPHONE one may enjoy at any time music of any kind. Its variety is unlimited. It is matchless as an entertainer. Manufactured under the patents of Bell, Tainter, Edison and Macdonald. Our establishment is headquarters of the world for talking machines and talking machine supplies.

Graphophones are sold for $10 and up.
